ARCTIC AIR FIGHTING TO GIVE CITY SNOW

A mass of Arctic air is putting up a valiant struggle to bring a touch of winter to the Victoria area.

The official forecast calls for a resumption of colder temperatures Friday and Saturday, mostly cloudy with showers—some of them mixed with snow.

Noon temperature at Gonzales was 40, low expected tonight is in the 35 to 38 range.

... "amazing benefactions"

$4 Million For the Good Of Community

By JOHN MIKA

An amazing series of benefactions to Victoria and various community organizations was revealed fully for the first time in the will of Thomas Shanks McPherson when it was filed for probate today. Some bequests had been made public previously.

Value of the estate was estimated at a net of approximately $4,000,000 but Mr. McPherson's will ensures that its ultimate value with accrued interest will substantially exceed this figure.

And virtually all of it will benefit every citizen of Victoria and some segments of the community several times over.

Aside from modest bequests to a relative and an ailing friend, Mr. McPherson left his fortune to the city of Victoria, Victoria College, the Salvation Army, YM-YWCA, Christ Church Cathedral, and made provision for gifts to 11 charities for the next five years.

Mr. McPherson, who died Dec. 3 at the age of 89, was the epitome of the extremely shy self-made businessman who helped charities without fanfare all his life and even on his death.

He loved Victoria with a dedicated passion which the city probably never will forget.

Under the terms of his will, the city stands to benefit by almost $1,000,000 in five years' time—by far the largest legacy it has ever received from a citizen.

The will was filed for probate by Douglas Abbott, manager of The Canada Trust Company which is executor and trustee.

It calls for almost immediate disbursement of $700,000 in bequests to:

- Christ Church Cathedral, $50,000 in the hope it will be used for completing the chancel;
- University Building Fund for Victoria College, $250,000;
- Salvation Army, $200,000 to be used in the province;
- Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association, $200,000 for the proposed joint building in Victoria.

Two Small Lifetime Legacies

Small lifetime legacies are 11 charities and a Masonic lodge, left to a relative and friend.

The $3,300,000 remainder of the estate—mostly in stocks at the moment but also including the part ownership of the seven-story Central Building office block, the old Pantazios Theatre and some adjoining property—will be tied up for five years.

During that period, the income from the estate, will be distributed in annual gifts to:

- Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1 will receive $500 annually for the five-year period and the rest of the revenue will be divided among:
- Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Protestant Orphan Home, Victoria, Symphony Society, United Appeal, YM-YWCA, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Queen's University, and the Victoria Hospital.

Ski Tow Breakdown Traps 56

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fifty-six young persons were trapped—some for as much as three hours—in freezing temperatures Wednesday night when a chairlift on Hollyburn Mountain in neighboring West Vancouver broke down.

Police said today they are holding four youths who are believed to have caused the accident by swinging chairs as they went around the turning mechanism at the bottom of the lift.

The young persons who were attending a dance at a ski lodge on the mountain, suffered no severe injuries.

One hundred and five others who were stranded at the top of the lift were guided down the snow-covered mountain by police.

Some of the trapped swayed in chairs 200 feet above the ground. Firemen used 40-foot aluminum ladders and ropes to rescue them.

Ropes were looped over the chairlift at the high edge of a 200-foot gully. They were then inched down to the stranded riders and a ladder sent over to them. They crawled along the ladders to the edge of the gully.

Police said the cable was slipped out of the pulley by youths swinging the chairs.

TOWER PULLED DOWN

The sagging cable, kept in motion by an engine at the top of the lift, dragged a chair into the cross beams of a tower, pulling down the heavy structure.

Ray Carlaw, 22, who was thrown 20 feet to the ground from the entangled chair suffered cuts and bruises.

The passengers had been attending a dance of the Jewish Community Centre of Vancouver. The chairlift was turned on to take them down the mountain to chartered buses.

Forest ranger Ted Russell said chairlift operator Mike Gazda was riding the first chair down.

"Gazda just arrived at the bottom when he saw four kids swinging the chairs as they went around the pulley."

'Suddenly Everyone's An Invader's Cousin'

HAVANA (AP)—Crowds of Cubans today thronged the homes of the Cuban invaders' families committee anxious for clearance that would allow them to travel to the United States.

They had heard reports that Premier Fidel Castro would authorize the departure of another 1,000 relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders.

Wednesday 921 men, women and children left aboard the American freighter African Pilot.

RELATIVES ARRIVE

'Outside Cuba Anything Looks Like Heaven'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The freighter African Pilot brought 921 relatives of the Bay of Pigs captives to Florida today and to an emotional reunion.

About 600 of the prisoners, released last Sunday and Monday, were waiting at an auditorium when their relatives arrived by bus from Port Everglades, where their ship docked.

The first woman to enter the hall, Mrs. Nereida Rodriguez Estrada, 23, became incoherent when she was unable to locate her husband at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Delgado tearfully embraced their son, Roman, 28, when they saw him for the first time in eight months.

"It is a miracle that we are here," cried Mrs. Delgado, 55. "Anything outside of Cuba looks like heaven," her husband agreed.

Asked what was the most serious of shortages of living essentials in Cuba, Delgado replied: "The most grievous is the shortage of shame."

As the relatives arrived, hopes were high that Premier Castro would allow at least another 1,000 relatives to leave, joining the massive exodus that has brought 200,000 persons to the United States.

The African Pilot brought mothers, fathers, wives and other relatives of the prisoners. Also aboard was Guillermo Ara

Europe Gripped By Cold

LONDON (CP)—Two British trains smashed together in a blizzard Wednesday night, killing at least 18 persons, and many other deaths were reported from Europe as bitter Arctic winds pushed winter southward across the continent.

A blizzard that dropped up to a foot of snow in England was blowing when the Glasgow-to-London Scot Express smashed into the rear of a local train stopped at Copenhall Junction four miles outside the Midlands industrial city of Crewe.

The dead—many of them still unidentified—all were in one car of the Liverpool-to-Birmingham local. Six were children. Thirty-three persons were injured, many critically.

The local train's two end cars, one of them a baggage car, were smashed into a mass of twisted metal.

Firemen worked under automobile headlights to cut through the twisted steel with acetylene torches.

It was Britain's worst train wreck since 1957, when 90 persons were killed in the collision of two rush-hour commuter trains between London and Lewisham.

Rescue squads worked by headlamps laying the dead out at a nearby farm and carrying the injured to a field to await ambulances.

"Some of the injured are so seriously hurt that it is doubtful whether they will survive," said a fire department spokesman.

POWER LINES FALL

A-dozen doctors and 60 firemen worked frantically to rescue the trapped and injured but were severely hampered by fallen power lines brought down by the crash.

Europe's piercing weather extended from the far north to the Mediterranean and eastward to Siberia.

Two people were frozen to death in northern Portugal. It snowed in northern and central Spain. Italy was wrapped in snow from the Alps to Sicily. In Calabria, in the toe of Italy, four persons died when their car skidded and hit a tree in a snowstorm.

In the Italian Alpine town of Domodossola an avalanche swept two smugglers to their deaths.

In the Italian Alps, temperatures plunged to 31 degrees below zero at Trappelle, high-altitude area in Europe. Italian newspapers reported the coldest Christmas of the century.

SNOW HITS PARIS
Snowplows churned in Copenhagen, Denmark, where temperatures hovered around freezing.

Paris, dusted with snow, awoke to freezing weather and there was a rush on stores for ladies' boots.

Germany was mostly free of fresh snow, but it was cold—14 to 17 degrees. The Dutch skated on their frozen canals, and in Oslo, Norway, the day was clear and freezing.

But Hammerfest, Norway, which is farther north than Nome, Alaska, was having "mild" weather. It was 32 degrees above zero and most of the snow had been washed away by mild rain.

The snowline in Britain crept steadily south from Scotland, and London's spires and rooftops bore an icing of white. Hill roads in many parts of Britain were impassable. At London Airport many planes were grounded.

Heavy rains collapsed at least 100 houses in Algiers, across the Bay from Gibraltar, and caused other destruction in the area. A woman and the baby to whom she had just given birth were rescued from a bed floating in a street in southern Spain.

DIEFENBAKER

Jake Gave Jack To John

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John (Jake the Barber) Factor and his wife contributed $22,000 to the Kennedy presidential campaign and the Democratic National Committee in 1960 and 1961, congressional records showed today.

Factor was given a Christmas pardon last weekend by President Kennedy from a 1943 fraud conviction. The action will quash current deportation proceedings against him.

Factor contributed $10,000 to two Democratic campaign groups in 1960 and $2,000 to the National Committee last year, according to reports filed with the U.S. House of Representatives. His wife, Rella, contributed $10,000 in 1960.

(In Palm Beach, Fla., where President Kennedy is holidaying, press secretary Pierre Salinger said of the Factor campaign contribution: "I don't know anything about it.")

BROKE SECRECY

Dief's Gaffe Annoys Allies

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker divulged the amount of a Western military aid program for India before the United States and Britain could officially inform India and Pakistan, diplomatic sources reported today.

Mr. Diefenbaker disclosed at Nassau after a luncheon meeting with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the U.S., Britain and Canada and some other Commonwealth countries plan to supply India with $120,000,000 worth of military equipment to bolster its against Communist Chinese aggression.

Pakistan had already expressed alarm over Western military assistance to India, fearing India might use it in its long-standing dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Pakistan has contended that large-scale military aid to India might make matters worse instead of better in the Asian sub-continent.

Diplomatic sources said Mr. Diefenbaker revealed the amount of the program before Britain and the U.S. could inform India or reassure Pakistan that the Western weapons would be used only by India in its conflict with China.

REPORTED UPSET
Consequently, the U.S. and Britain were reported upset by Mr. Diefenbaker's disclosure.

Mr. Diefenbaker a few weeks ago offered Canada's diplomatic aid to India and Pakistan to try to settle the Kashmir dispute.

The United Kingdom high commissioner's office and the U.S. embassy here had no comment on the matter. They said they are not directly concerned transportation facilities.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

NEW FREEDOM, Pa.—Santa Claus just couldn't make it, so he sent a train.

To the surprise of all, a streamlined passenger train roared into this tiny York County hamlet Christmas Eve and screeched to a halt at the tumbledown shack of a mother and her eight children.

Out sprang the crew in the twinkling of an eye, laden with packages of toys and food.

In an instant, the shack came alive with the shouts of joy from wide-eyed and delighted youngsters. But before the bewildered mother could even say "thanks," the men were off again, back to their jobs.

The special stop was the idea of flagman Nelson Speraw of Harrisburg and his helpers on the Pennsylvania Railroad Harrisburg-to-Baltimore train which leaves every night at 6 p.m.

"We never had a chance to learn the name of the family," Speraw said, "but it was obvious they could stand some help. So we schemed up this project."

"Of course," he added quickly, "we asked Santa's official permission first. He gave us the green light."

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Nobody could have a more inconvenient allergy at Christmas time than William M. Hester of Nashville. His wife says Christmas trees bring on a hay fever reaction.

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.—"Come on James, let's get some dynamite and raise Cain."

That, police were told, was what Cleo Moore, about 45, said late Christmas Eve to a tenant on one of his farms, James Clark, 53.

About 2 a.m. on Christmas Day dynamite in their pickup truck exploded and the two men were killed.

The accident occurred near Wade, eight miles northeast of Fayetteville.

The blast left two widows and eight fatherless children—five of Clark's and three of Moore's.

It's a custom in some North Carolina areas to "shoo in" Christmas and New Year's.

VIENNE—Herbert Leiche, 50, made a Christmas Day bet with his 16-year-old son he could box his ears before the boy could draw a pistol and shoot.

The youngster used a pistol with a sawed-off barrel and apparently was not aware the gun was dangerous, police said today.

The boy was faster. The father was hit by a bullet in the chest and died shortly after. The boy himself reported the incident to police and was held for juvenile authorities.

INVERNESS, N.S.—"Guess I got to give up cigarettes, they cut your time short," said Donald John Kennedy as he celebrated his 100th birthday here Christmas Day.

He said, "I'm still going strong" and would walk the six miles to church at neighboring Broad Cove if the roads were not so slippery.

PITTSBURGH—Mrs. Norma Christmas and Mrs. S. Claus can relax a bit. The rash of holiday telephone calls is over.

"My phone has been ringing for weeks," said Mrs. Christmas today. "People want to talk to Christmas at Christmas."

She laughed. "The polite little jokes some people try to make. How's Christmas, Christmas? Merry Christmas, Christmas. I've heard them all."

Mrs. Claus said she goes along with the gag because many of her callers are children.

"I wouldn't do anything that might destroy a child's belief in Santa and when they ask for Santa Claus I tell them he isn't home."

...CUBA RELATIVES

Alonso, former Havana lawyer who was freed without explanation from a Cuban prison.

Refugee officials called it "only the first lead."

"We hope to send another ship in two or three weeks," said Mrs. Berta Barreto de los Heros of the Cuban Families Committee. "We want to bring out the rest of the relatives and even sweethearts."

Mrs. Barreto said she saw Premier Castro at the airport in Havana, just before leaving with the last load of invasion captives Monday night.

"Castro told me that he would allow another 1,000 relatives of prisoners to leave Cuba and that our family committee could select them," she said.

James B. Donovan, New York lawyer who negotiated the release of the prisoners, will be in charge of arranging for another ship to take the place of the aged African Pilot.

Devoting her last voyage to this errand of mercy, the 20-year-old African Pilot entered the port near Fort Lauderdale.

with military aid to India and thus would not be immediately informed of government attitudes in Washington and London toward Mr. Diefenbaker's disclosure.

In Washington, British and U.S. diplomatic sources also said the prime minister had disclosed the amount of aid prematurely but said officials of their countries are not unduly perturbed.

A British informant said the Canadian leader made the disclosure after Macmillan and Kennedy had decided not to make the details public until there had been consultation with India and Pakistan. This consultation started today.

An American source said the U.S. would have been happier if Diefenbaker had not made the disclosure but he added that this sort of premature announcement goes on all the time and that the U.S. has learned to live with it.

Alexander Dumas' famous Three Musketeers will be presented in two parts by the French Film Committee. In full color, the French language films will be shown at the Fox Theatre: Part I on Jan. 7 and Part II on Jan. 14—both at 3:45 and 8 p.m. Admission is available at the door for those without season tickets to the committee's current program.

RUSSIAN FAMILIES GO HOME

HAVANA (AP)—Hundreds of Russian men, women and children sailed from Havana on a Soviet passenger liner Tuesday night, presumably bound for home. They may have been workers and their families sent to Cuba in connection with the recently dismantled Soviet missile sites.

Another Ransom Sought

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A group of Cuban exiles said Wednesday Castro agents have offered to trade prominent political prisoners for $5,000,000 worth of food.

A group calling itself the Syndicate of Free Newsmen of Cuba in Exile said in a statement that agents of Premier Fidel Castro contacted Cuban exiles here to bargain for the six.

The statement said that among them are Hubert Matos, tried by a Cuban court for treason in 1959 and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The syndicate said Castro's success in the Bay of Pigs prisoner exchange encouraged him to try other such ventures. It calls the idea repugnant.

The group added that the Castro government is asking money to guarantee safe conduct for refugees in foreign embassies in Havana.

The syndicate said Castro has 80,000 prisoners, mostly political. It called on the international Red Cross and the human rights committees of the United Nations and the Organization of American States to take action to protect them.

The syndicate statement was signed by Modesto Vasquez, Mexican delegate for the exile organization.

Fallout Increases

TOKYO (Reuters)—Strong radioactivity, believed to have come from the current series of Soviet nuclear tests, was detected in rain which fell in northern Japan Wednesday night.

Exports to Continue

TOKYO (AP)—Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira said today the Japanese government cannot grant a NATO request to halt the export of oil pipes to the Soviet Union. "The Japanese government," he said, "has no legal power to stop private enterprise from exporting pipes to the Soviet Union."

Seasickness, nervousness and a mild outbreak of measles aboard the ship failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the refugees who gave up everything they owned to escape Castro Communism and join loved ones in the United States.

Only about 200 observers saw the freighter come in. The port was closed to all but reporters and authorized officials. A big sign said "Welcome" in English.

The American Red Cross reported nine cases of measles aboard. Three ambulances were on the dock to pick up 11 stretcher cases.

Joe McGowan, Associated Press writer representing American news agencies on the African Pilot, said many passengers remained awake through the long night, too nervous and excited to sleep.

WHO COULD SLEEP?

"I have a bed," said one elderly refugee, "but who could sleep at a time like this?"

A tangle of excitement swept through the ship when the engines started last night in Havana harbor. As the ship moved out, the refugees sang the Cuban national anthem.

Oldest of the refugees aboard was Angla Ceballos de Marero, 89-year-old grandmother of one of the prisoners. The youngest was a baby born 22 days ago.

Many women wore housecoats during the voyage. "I'm saving my good clothes to look nice for my husband when I arrive in Florida," one explained.

They left Cuba with little but the clothes they wore. Many items which apparently exceeded Castro's limitations were taken from the refugees on the dock at Havana.

One woman said the soldiers "took my sweater, cigarette case and extra shoes, and argued over some medicine I had in my handbag."

"I argued with them, but they asked me, 'Do you want to go or stay?'"

FREED CUBANS MEET KENNEDY

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy will meet today with five leaders of the Cuban invasion of last April.

They will be joined by the head of the Cuban Families Committee, which arranged for the release of 1,113 men captured when the invasion plan failed.

$3 Million Cheque Raised To Keep Deal With Castro

NEW YORK (AP)—A swift, spur-of-the-moment collection of nearly $3,000,000 prevented a last-minute hitch in the operation to free the Cuban invasion prisoners. It was recounted today. The money was raised in 24 hectic hours, ending in mid-afternoon Monday, as the return of captives was in progress.

A New York Times news service dispatch from Washington told how the issuance to Fidel Castro of a $2,900,000 cheque, drawn on the Royal Bank of Canada, kept the operation going until it was completed.

It had been promised him for the release last April of 60 wounded prisoners, and never had been paid. He insisted on the need for showing "good faith" as the first rights of released prisoners began Sunday.

At that time, the extraordinary money-raising effort also started, with private and government officials working against the clock.

COMPLEX PROJECT

The manoeuvre capped a complex three-week sequence of steps to bring about the huge exchange of $53,000,000 worth of food and drugs for the 1,113 captives.

This had involved a mass of arrangements, by which U.S. companies were providing goods and transportation, with market value or costs quickly ruled tax deductible.

The whole undertaking was carried out as a private citizens' committee affair, but it had active collaboration of government leaders, with control of the project centred in the justice department.

Then, in the last stages, obstacle of the cash payment came up, with Castro indicating some prisoners would be held back unless the money was forthcoming.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy called a man he knew. The Times related, and explained the situation. The man offered $1,000,000—on condition he remain anonymous.

At 5 a.m. Monday a Washington lawyer, John E. Nolan, working on the project in Miami, telephoned to say that it appeared Castro would have to have the $2,900,000 by 3 p.m.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay made some telephone calls from Washington. In New York, another lawyer, Robert H. Knight and friends recruited by him began telephoning possible contributors; with promises of $50,000 and $100,000 obtained.

"By Monday the target was in sight," The Times related. "One man agreed to lend $1,000,000 so that a cheque could reach Premier Castro by 3 p.m. The Royal Bank of Canada which has a Havana office, issued the cheque. The telephoning went on."

By midnight, the approximate goal had been pledged and the Cuban prisoners got home for Christmas.

LAWYER SEEKS RELEASE OF 20 U.S. PRISONERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A state department spokesman said today lawyer James B. Donovan and American Red Cross officials are negotiating with Cuban authorities for the release of more than 20 American prisoners, but "what the outcome will be we do not know."

In reporting this, press officer Lincoln White said Donovan, the New Yorker who arranged for release of the Cuban invasion prisoners, is "acting as a humanitarian to get people out of jail" and not as a representative of the U.S. government.

TWO-MINUTE GRAB

$106,000 Bank Theft

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Three Manitoba men arrested after the $106,000 Christmas Eve holdup of a bank branch were released today after questioning.

RCMP said there were no developments in the investigation of the after-hours robbery of the bank in this municipality of 100,000 neighboring Vancouver.

The men were picked up in a Vancouver house seven hours after the lightning theft at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. The branch is on the bustling Kingsway, a major commercial thoroughfare that slices through east-end Vancouver and Burnaby. A department store across the street made a major deposit just before the bank closed at 3 p.m. Two hours later two masked men—one armed with a revolver, the other with an automatic pistol—appeared from the rear of the bank.

SCOOP UP MONEY

Manager William Barber and his staff were given a sharp order to freeze. The men—one of them obviously nervous—scooped the money into canvas bags and fled.

Mr. Barber said they must have studied the bank's pattern of operation for weeks. He said perhaps two minutes passed from the time they apparently forced their way in and left through the same door.

RCMP called in extra men, spread their net to all sea, road, rail and air outlets from B.C.'s lower mainland, and broadcast bulletins that specifically named two men.

When "two arrests" were made at midnight Monday, police also recovered a car, but found no trace of the guns or the money, which was in denominations of $10 and $20. They did not say where in Manitoba the three men were from.

The Canadian Bankers' Association offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the holdup men.

Moscow Fires 'Independent' State Head

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda disclosed today that the premier of one of the Soviet Union's most important republics, the virgin lands territory of Kazakhstan, has been fired for displaying "nationalism."

This could mean showing too much independence of Moscow.

The disgraced official is Salken Daulenov, also accused of "violation of party ethics, crudeness and conceit."

Pravda, the Communist party's official newspaper, said he was also expelled from the central committee of the party's Kazakhstan branch.

He is being replaced by Dinmuhamed Kunayev, who was relieved Wednesday of his job as Communist party chief for Kazakhstan. Since party chiefs are generally more powerful than premiers of Soviet republics, Kunayev apparently is being kicked upstairs.

'WITNESSES' SENTENCED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW. (Reuters)—An unspecified number of Jehovah's Witnesses have been sentenced to varying prison terms for running underground presses allegedly under orders from one of the movement's centres in Brooklyn, New York.

The Soviet labor newspaper, Trud, names six persons in a report and says they were headed by A. Potashov, said to be "the most senior Jehovah's Witness" in the Soviet Union.

The report says the "underground firm of Jehovah" had received instructions from Brooklyn which were "not religious instructions but illegal anti-social and anti-state activities."

ASSASSINATION plot in which his own bodyguard was among the plotters has been revealed by President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia. The plot was uncovered but some 400 suspects were rounded up for questioning and 20 are still being held. The plan was to kill him in bed in his white-walled palace near Tunis.

India, Pakistan Open Talks on Kashmir

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (Reuters)—India and Pakistan today opened a two-day conference here on the 15-year-old Kashmir dispute with opposing stands—a broad Indian program of removing "irritants" versus a Pakistani call for a plebiscite in Kashmir.

Delegation leaders, India's Sardar Swaran Singh and Pakistan's Z. A. Bhutto, gave statements of their countries' positions before being summoned together for an hour's meeting with president Mohammed Ayub Khan.

Swaran and Bhutto were reported to be meeting informally this afternoon at Bhutto's home.

During this morning's 70-minute session which began in the wake of the surprise announcement of a border agreement between Pakistan and Communist China, India proposed a "large-scale program" on several fronts to encourage friendship between India and Pakistan and to remove points of dispute between them, including their dispute over control of Kashmir.

Shortly after the Indian delegation's arrival here Wednesday, it was announced Pakistan had reached complete agreement in principle on the alignment of the Himalayan border with China—now engaged in a major border dispute with India.

Indian delegation sources argued that the intention of the Sino-Pakistani announcement was to embarrass India and to isolate her diplomatically.

Some observers here said the move was a bid to win some prestige for Pakistan and strengthen her hand in the current negotiations with India.

Both sides said Wednesday they would not adopt "rigid attitudes" at the two-day meeting, designed to pave the way for a meeting between Ayub and Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

The Dangerous Pause

EASTERN NEWSPAPERS, even one as friendly to the government as the Toronto Globe and Mail, report strong pressure in the Conservative Party for the retirement of Mr. Diefenbaker.

No doubt there is such pressure when the government lives as the hostage of two splinter parties. The Conservative Party has appointed eight leaders in this century as against the Liberal Party's four. But the rumors of Mr. Diefenbaker's probable resignation must be taken with reserve. To remove a leader who doesn't wish to go is the most difficult operation in politics.

Anyway, this sort of speculation, while interesting and much easier to read than the dull facts of government, misses the real problem at Ottawa, the real dilemma of the nation.

What matters most is that Parliament, after sitting for nearly three months, has done virtually nothing of importance, even though the government promised to introduce "long-term measures" of economic and financial reform. Not one of them had appeared before the members went home for their Christmas holidays.

Speaking as the government's friend, The Globe and Mail says that "it is becoming increasingly difficult to escape the impression that the government is deliberately holding back on important and controversial legislation for fear of suffering a defeat in the Commons." It would be far better, in our view, for the government to risk defeat in an election in which it is offering bold and imaginative leadership to the country than to allow Parliament to drift while the nation waits impatiently for action.

Not only have all our basic problems been left untouched since the foreign exchange crisis of last June but the means of solving them have been gravely undermined.

When the Canadian people learned after the general election that their country was on the edge of international bankruptcy they were ready to make serious sacrifices. The program of so-called "austerity" was accepted without the least complaint. All the people asked was strong leadership from the government.

Apparently the crisis ended in a few weeks. The exchange reserves rose rapidly, the devalued Canadian dollar was held at its pegged rate. But still no problem was solved. As a neutral and highly-qualified observer, Mr. N. J. McKinnon, president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, said in a recent speech, the basic weaknesses that produced the crisis have not been corrected by "austerity." In fact, they have only been disguised. Now even the disguise is disappearing.

Nearly all the improvement in our exchange reserves was due to the government's promise of economy and a balanced budget in the visible future. On the assurance that the nation's finances would soon be put in order, foreign investors who had withdrawn their money and caused the crisis, brought it back to Canada.

This, however, could be only a temporary cure since the money could flow out again as fast as it flowed in if investors lost their confidence in Canadian finance.

For some months it appeared that the government was reducing its expenditures substantially, as promised. These efforts have slackened. Mr. Nowlan admits that the deficit of $750 millions proposed by his predecessor last spring cannot be cut much after all.

Recently the government raised civil service salaries by some $30 millions a year, though it promised not to do so until it had removed the emergency tariff surcharges, most of which still remain. No doubt the civil servants have sound claims for these increases but another official promise has been broken.

Moreover, as The Globe and Mail says, when the government itself abandons "austerity" and starts spending again on a wide front, it cannot expect the people to understand that the nation's crisis, though disguised, is still with it.

That, indeed, is the core of the problem—the failure of the government to act on any fundamental issue, the public impression that all is well.

Unless Canada's mood and its governmental methods change it will face another crisis not long from now but before that time the government hopes to win another election. Politically this enterprise is unlikely to work. Economically and financially it would solve nothing if it did work.

Mr. Young Coming Home

VICTORIANS WHO KNOW HIM and are acquainted with his former work at the City Hall will wish Mr. Dennis Young a happy home-coming when he returns to assume the post of city manager here.

His selection to succeed Mr. Cecil Wyatt on the latter's retirement next year reflects good judgment on the part of the council. Mr. Young enjoyed universal respect as city comptroller-treasurer for Victoria before going to Hamilton to serve as treasurer and commissioner of finance.

His capabilities, his record and his personality equip him admirably for the important duties ahead of him as senior employee of the city council.

It is to be expected that Mr. Young will bring some new methods and perhaps new practices to the City Hall. They will not, however, be introduced without background knowledge gained from earlier service with the city and experience in municipal affairs here and elsewhere.

Bridges Are for Crossing

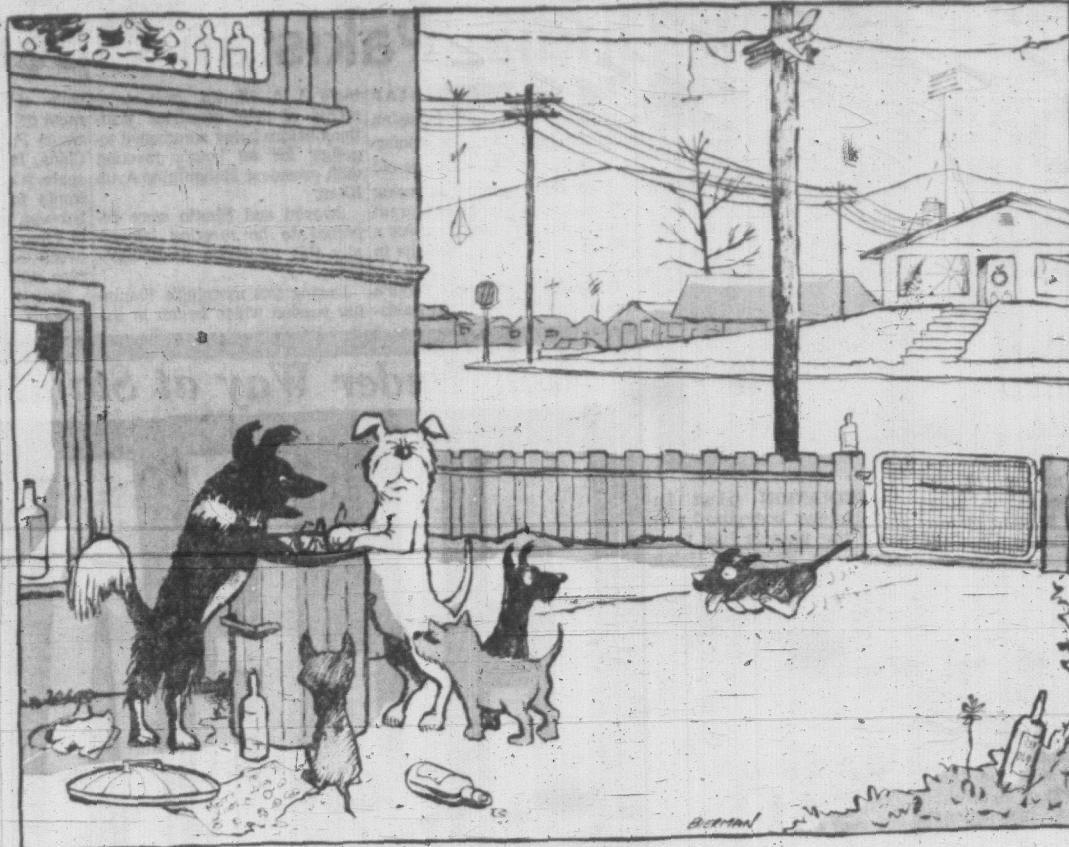

A SPECIAL BOUQUET TO MRS. Effie Aldrich, who saw her duty and did it.

Mrs. Aldrich was to snip the ribbon at the ceremonial opening of the Lake Washington ship canal bridge. Somebody handed her a pair of scissors and she snipped. Traffic began to move across the bridge. And the dignitaries assembled to make formal speeches on that occasion were left with their speeches undelivered.

The bridge functions just as well without the oratory and the gentlemen who came to speak have material in their pockets for future occasions when speeches are desirable.

All in all, it seems a pretty good way to open a bridge.

FROM MONTREAL

Mr. Gordon and the French Canadians

THE anti-Gordon student demonstrations in Quebec City, Montreal, Sherbrooke and Ottawa are a further indication of the strong political undercurrents in French Canada today. They are also a reminder that the aspirations of nearly one-third of the population cannot be ignored without imperiling seriously our national unity.

It is true that the students went off half-cocked and probably overplayed their hand. They did their cause harm by choosing the National War Memorial in Ottawa as a site of one demonstration, and they roused indignation in Montreal by tearing up a Red Ensign.

The hanging and burning of the CNR president in effigy, the crude signs, and the rabble-like conduct of the participants, were a revolting spectacle that could only discourage a more positive attitude toward French Canadians on the part of their fellow-citizens.

There is strong evidence that the demonstration in Montreal got out of hand, and that the separatists from both within and without the University of Montreal almost succeeded in turning it into a first-class riot.

No Compromise Wanted

It must be remembered that, like the Communists who have offered their support to Mr. Marcel Chaput in the past, the separatists have no desire to assure a working compromise between the two Canadas. Racial harmony can only mean political oblivion to them. A few martyrs killed while trying to "liberate" French Canada from "foreign" domination may well have given them the new lease on political life that they need so desperately—since the Lesage victory of last month. Such a political windfall might even have made it unnecessary for Mr. Chaput to go to work for a living again.

Having established the fact that the students acted rashly and immaturely, as students all over the world are wont to do, it must also be stated that the adults concerned are at least partially responsible for the whole incident.

At the hearings of the Parliamentary committee in Ottawa, Social Credit M.P. Gilles Giguere set out to harass the CNR president, knowing full well—or at least he should have known, that Mr. Gordon has never taken kindly to politicians using the Canadian National as a political whipping boy.

Baiting Attack

Mr. Giguere succeeded in baiting the railway president into making some remarks which, by implication and in tone at least, could only offend French Canadian sensitivities. The Sacred tactics were obviously impressive, as former Liberal minister of transport, Lionel Chevrier, anxious to establish himself as the No. 1 French Canadian politician in Ottawa, joined in the attack against the man with whom he had worked closely for many years.

Finally, members of the press corps added their contribution of fuel to the fire by sensational reporting of the exchange.

An examination of the record reveals that Mr. Gordon made the point, albeit in a rather provocative tone, that French Canadians could not expect promotions in the CNR simply because of their racial origin, and that he would not accept the principle of a quota of French Canadians in the railway service proportionate to their percentage of the total population.

His diplomatic shortcomings were most evident when he made the point, admitted by the calmer spirits in Quebec, that French Canadians have not trained themselves to compete with English-speaking Canadians in such specialized fields as railway management. Even undeniable truths must often be dealt with circumspectly and Donald Gordon, an extraordinarily forthright man, is anything but circumspect.

Whatever his share of responsibility in provoking the crisis, Mr. Gordon has proven once again his true stature by his efforts to get to the root of the trouble. While three thousand people milled around below his seventeenth-floor offices in Montreal, he received the ringleaders of the student demonstrators, and not only succeeded in explaining his point of view, but sent them away with real hope in their hearts that their generation could expect fair treatment.

Of course, he failed to convince them that he was right in the naming of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal, or

Latent Rivalry

By FRANCIS BOYD

THERE is a latent rivalry between Parliament and the press which only occasionally becomes evident. Sometimes, one side of the House decries a press campaign while the other side supports it. Sometimes the House as a whole is offended when a newspaper has published an article held to be a breach of Parliamentary privilege. Sometimes the House itself makes a decision which the press as a whole dislikes.

At such times, pressmen who work in Parliament are made immediately aware that the politicians are huffy. Pressmen can huff, too; they are no less human than the politicians.

The origin of this rivalry was described accurately during a debate on the collapse of the London "News Chronicle" and "Star" in 1960, by a member of Parliament who is also a journalist, Mr. William Deedes. He has since become minister without portfolio but with the duty of co-ordinating the government's information services. Mr. Deedes said:

"The relations between the politicians and the newspapers are founded not on sympathy but on antipathy. Both to some extent are rivals for influence over the public mind, and they take good care that neither should achieve a monopoly of it. Therein lies the incalculable value of this relationship, because in countries where newspapers and politicians are in the same camp, there freedom is threatened."

This is bed-rock. The press, like the law, must never surrender an inch of the territory which it occupies independently of the executive. Otherwise it would perish.

But the press lives on news, and news—as the sharp-minded Mr. Deedes once wrote in a newspaper article—is "something that somebody doesn't want you to print." A famous journalist, Henri de Blowitz, who enabled the "Times" to print the preamble and 64 articles of the Treaty of Berlin in 1878 before it had been published or signed, wrote in his "Memoirs":

"I am not inquisitive for my own sake—only for the sake of my paper. I do not care to know what happens if the public is not to know it. I am a journalist and not a confessor. . . . I have always told things when no imperative obligation prevented my doing so. . . . And I maintain that journalists who are silent when they could speak fall in their duty to the paper which they are supposed to serve, and in their duty to the public for whom they are supposed to be working."

As Our Readers See It

One Tot Less

As there is so much drinking I thought up a slogan that might help.

To all drivers who drink:
One tot less for the road, might mean one tot more on the road.
ANON.

Socialist?

In a recent issue of The Times a CP release refers to an NDPer as a socialist, as does the head editorial on Page Four. On Page Five a UPI release refers to the Soviet shipping planes to Cuba as "a socialist bloc sea-lift."

The thing that no newspaper has ever explained is: what in the program or practise of the CCF-NDP or Communist parties makes them socialist and the other parties non-socialist?

The fact is that they all support the relation of capital and wage labor. Only the Socialist Party of Canada supports production for use, common ownership of the productive apparatus and the consequent ending of the wages and money or any other "medium of exchange" type system.

LARRY TICKNER.

Grave Injustice

I hope the Canadian people haven't been misled regarding recent civil service salary increases, as there has been a grave injustice done, by both the past and present finance ministers, against the lower income bracket.

The hospital nursing orderlies have received the worst deal of all since 1957. As a result the turnover has been enormous. I too, once followed Honest John. Although I'm not a Liberal, when the Liberals were in power, the turnover was less, the morale high, and they were just with their pay increases, although I didn't agree on the percentage basis.

The ones who are suffering, are the old sweats, and between orderlies who are trying to perform duties of two men, and receiving lots of shift work.

I appeal to M.P.s, Legion members and veterans, to try to have this injustice rectified.

While the Western Alliance Is by No Means Disrupted, It Is Severely Shaken Up

By WALTER LIPPMANN, from Washington

THE American monopoly of nuclear weapons has become a hot issue in Britain and France because of the Cuban affair, and it has become an immediate issue because of the controversy over Skybolt. In Cuba, American nuclear power was wielded without consulting our European allies. To have nothing to say while Washington and Moscow go to the brink of nuclear war reduces the Europeans, says M. Raymond of the newspaper Figaro, "to the status of protectorate nations." This, he has said in the New Republic, is on the way to being intolerable provocation and humiliation.

Coming on top of this, the decision about Skybolt looked—however little this was in fact the President's intention—like an American action to abolish the British nuclear deterrent. Thus, while the Western Alliance is by no means disrupted, it is severely shaken up.

After hearing the matter argued back and forth and sideways in the capitals of Western Europe, my general feeling is that while in theory the problem is insoluble, actual experience will nevertheless prevent the theoretical conflict from producing dangerous practical consequences.

Let us look at the theory. It is impossible within the same alliance to have one or two nuclear forces which are in truth independent of the main nuclear force. In the foreseeable future, the American nuclear force will comprise well over 90 per cent of the whole nuclear power of the Western Alliance.

All that an "independent" French force could do is to make a first strike against a few Soviet cities. I have heard it said on high authority that they might kill 20 million Russians. After that, not even the American nuclear force might be able to deter the Soviet Union from a devastating retaliation against France.

In the American view, therefore, it is impossible to concede to France the right to initiate a nuclear war. We have to insist that being allies requires that the French force should not be used independently but only as a part of a unified force of the alliance.

This American view is regarded as self-serving and is not acceptable to the French. They say, first, that the United States wants a veto on France although, as was shown in Cuba, France has no veto on the United States. They say, second, that our policy means that we will use nuclear weapons when we regard the issue as vital to us whereas we will not use them when the issue is thought vital only to France.

Anyone who has had the patience to follow all this argumentation will perhaps agree that theoretically the problem posed by our nuclear monopoly is insoluble. Nor is the problem likely to be made soluble by some international device such as an "independent" European nuclear force or an "independent" NATO force.

They would pose the same problems for us that the independent French force poses. Moreover Gen. de Gaulle will have nothing to do with them. They could be used only to mask the problem if by some unlikely chance the French were willing to mask the problem.

What then? We may begin by noting that out of 16 countries of Western Europe only two, Britain and France, are in fact thinking about national nuclear forces. There is however a vast difference between the British and the French positions. The British force is fully integrated with the American, and does not, therefore, raise the question of an independent first strike. The British force is in fact under American command just as the American Navy was under British command during the first World War.

The continued existence of the British force is threatened by the fact that the British manned bombers are virtually obsolete, that while their useful life might be prolonged by a few years by Skybolt, in reality the British cannot afford the cost of a modern race of armaments and have no real choice but to withdraw from it.

It would clear the air of many poisonous fumes if London and Washington agreed that the experiment with an independent British nuclear force is finished, that no more money and nervous energy will be wasted on it, and that together the two English-speaking countries will work out the high policy and high strategy of the American deterrent.

It would be a very good thing if we could share with our leading allies, beginning with Great Britain, the moral and political responsibility for the fearful power which we possess. Along with this political collaboration there could go technical and economic collaboration in the use of British scientists and engineering facilities.

No such understanding is in fact now possible with Gen. de Gaulle. He cannot be argued out of his purposes, and certainly he cannot be bought off by anything that Britain and the United States could have to offer him.

We shall have to let our differences with Gen. de Gaulle be arbitrated by events while in the meantime we try to keep in decent humor. There is no crisis in Franco-American relations and there is no hurry about the issue between us.

It will take many years before France can make itself a serious nuclear power, and the fact that we stand aside passively while she works at it and realizes the gigantic costs will constitute notice that we were to take nuclear action outside the alliance, the United States government would not be morally and legally obligated to follow her.

Nevertheless, it is obvious, as we all know in our hearts, that we shall under no circumstances abandon France, even if we think she is wrong.

Believing as I do that the American view of nuclear power is right; I would be happier if, on our part, we do not allow the discussions with our allies to degenerate into a debating wrangle conducted with that moral self-righteousness which is the besetting temptation of those who on intellectual grounds believe, perhaps even know, that they are right.

U.S. Gold Stockpile Dips to 23-Year Low

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States will wind up 1962 with another big international trade deficit, this time blaming part of its troubles on Canada.

A conference department official estimates the trade deficit, in goods and services, will be about $2,000,000,000 this year, down from last year's $2,500,000,000, but still enough to keep American gold flowing into foreign coffers.

In fact, though the deficit has eased, the 1962 net export of gold may be higher than last year's $857,000,000 and may edge towards $1,000,000,000. Gold remaining in the U.S. treasury now totals about $16,000,000,000 — a 23-year low.

The drop in the American gold stockpile might have been greater but for the sale by Canada of $190,000,000 worth of the metal to the U.S. treasury at the height of the Canadian dollar crisis last summer.

Commerce department economist Walther Lederer says the Canadian dollar problem deepened the American trade deficit as capital in the form of loans and credits was rushed into Canada as Canada imposed import curbs to conserve her supply of American dollars.

BLAMES EXCHANGE CRISIS

"The deterioration of the over-all U.S. balance from the first two quarters of this year to the third quarter was due mainly to the swing in transactions with Canada, reflecting the Canadian exchange crisis," he says in a report.

"Our balance in the third quarter was favorably affected by receipts of $73,000,000 from advance debt repayments by France and Italy but adversely affected by changes in our transactions with Canada which may have increased net payments by about $500,000,000 over what normally would be expected."

The recovery in Canadian reserves had not been completed by the end of September, however, and higher than usual payments and lesser receipts in our transactions with Canada continued in the fourth quarter."

Usually, Canadian tourists tend to spend more in the U.S. than Americans in Canada. But, in 1962, after the dollar exchange rate was reduced, the flow was reversed. Instead of ending up with a surplus in tourist trade with Canada, Lederer estimated the U.S. end with a deficit.

MARKETS RESTRICTED

Along with more tourist dollars, American capital was attracted to Canada by the sharply higher Canadian interest rates. At the same time American exporters found some Canadian markets restricted by the import curbs in the latter part of the year.

Lederer made clear the American payments problem was by no means confined to Canada. American dividends from Europe also declined while the flow of American military and economic aid abroad continued.

Salk Program Credited With Sharp Cut in Polio

OTTAWA (CP) — A "remarkable drop" in the number of paralytic poliomyelitis cases to 86 in 1962 from 185 in 1961 and 909 in 1960 was reported Wednesday in a year-end roundup by the health department.

The report said it appeared that the original Salk vaccine program had been greatly instrumental in reducing morbidity to the 1962 level.

"To this was being added the effect of the 50-50 cost-sharing plan in which the federal government and several of the provinces were participating in a Sabin oral vaccine program."

Approximately 4,000,000 Canadians were immunized with the oral vaccine. The report also touched on fluoridation, fitness and civil defence planning.

CUTS TOOTH DECAY

A 16-year fluoridation study by the dental health division at the Ontario centres of Brantford, Sarnia and Stratford showed that among the younger age groups, mechanical adjustment of the fluoride content of a community water supply resulted in a significant reduction in tooth decay.

The emergency health services increased its medical stockpile inventory to $12,500,000 from $8,500,000 during 1962. The material, stored at strategic locations across Canada, is being made available for national emergencies.

Individual hospital disaster plans were established in more than 50 per cent of Canadian hospitals with the co-operation of the Canadian Hospital Association and provincial and municipal hospital authorities.

FEEDING UNITS

Stockpiles of operational equipment, including 87 mobile feeding units, were set up across the country by emergency welfare services and resident emergency welfare services representatives were established in Halifax, Quebec, Edmonton and Victoria.

As part of the department's fitness program, $500,000 will be made available to the provinces for the development of community fitness projects under agreements signed in 1962.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement that there will be "particular reference to" and "fullest consideration" for the views of Glassco Commissioner F. Eugene Therrien may be a turning-point in the culture of this country.

It could mean the establishment of the French language on terms of equality with the English language in the public service of Canada from Newfoundland to British Columbia. And not just theoretical equality, but actual working equality—perhaps under a system of alternating month by month in the language used in all official correspondence.

For example, one month all the correspondence between the Vancouver post office, customs and immigration, RCMP, defence forces and their headquarters in Ottawa, and all correspondence within the Vancouver offices, would be in English. The next month it would all be in French.

Ridiculous? At the moment, yes. But that is the kind of bilingualism in the public service that French-Canadians want, and towards which Mr. Therrien's recommendations would impel the government.

Therrien's complaints are that often civil servants are not allowed to write office memos and letters in French; there are too few French-speaking public servants; the number of French-Canadians in key positions is insignificant; persons are discriminated against if their English is faulty; no matter how perfect their French, Ottawa has never faced up to the problem of making the public service truly bilingual, and even today "it does not avail itself of the means at its disposal to find solutions."

Is Mr. Diefenbaker now going to find solutions that will be acceptable to French-Canada? If so, he'll go down in history. And he might even be re-elected next year with strong support from Quebec. It is interesting to speculate whether that thought may have crossed his mind.

I do not go along with those who argue that because French-Canadians form roughly a third of the population, a third of the jobs in the public service should be held as of right by French-Canadians. This would go against the principle of hiring the ablest person available. It would superimpose a racial qualification that could not be justified on grounds of good administration. It would be inverse discrimination.

However, if the problem were approached from the point of view of bilingualism, that would be a different matter. Education is desirable. Possession of more than one language is desirable. In Canada national as well as personal benefits flow from knowledge of both English and French.

Therefore it would be quite logical to raise employment standards to include the ability to read, write and speak both English and French. It would be feasible, I think, to divide the public service into three categories: top jobs, administrative and supervisory jobs, and other jobs. Bilingualism should be a requirement for a top job. Bilingualism should be a qualification for advancement in the second category, and a qualification for advancement out of the third category.

To be politically practical, public service bilingualism would have to be fair and acceptable to the nation as a whole. On the basis of an educational standard, it might be. On the basis of job discrimination along racial lines it wouldn't be.

The Price Is Right

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It says on my college record that I completed a course in economics, but that has never been of any help to me.

My ability to comprehend the economic issues of today was acquired much earlier in my scholastic career in elementary school and kindergarten.

A case in point is a recent hearing held by a house agriculture subcommittee on textile subsidies.

West

As I understand the situation, the whole thing started back yonder when someone discovered that farmers weren't getting enough money for their cotton.

In an effort to remedy the deficiency, the government set up a system of price supports to make up the difference between the going rate and what was regarded as a fair price for cotton.

This worked fine except that it boosted the price so high it caused a slump in the sale of U.S. cotton overseas.

In an effort to remedy that deficiency, the government set up a system of export subsidies to make up the difference between the U.S. price and the world market price.

That worked fine, too, except that it enabled foreign textile manufacturers to buy American cotton at a lower price than American manufacturers were paying.

The foreign manufacturers were then able to sell cotton products in this country for less than U.S. manufacturers were charging for similar items.

The subcommittee, therefore, has been holding hearings on a new proposal to subsidize the sale of cotton products to make up the difference between domestic and foreign prices.

As I was saying, nothing my economics professor told us seemed to bear any relation to a situation like this.

It is more closely related to geography class in elementary school, where we studied the pyramids, and to kindergarten, where we read "The House That Jack Built." (Not the Jack you're thinking of. This was before his time.)

If the plan goes into effect, and if it means what I think it does, the government will then be paying three cotton subsidies—one to get the price up, and two others to bring it back down again.

I don't know what that will lead to, but I should be able to figure it out as soon as I finish reviewing a book that we studied in high school literature class. It's called "Alice in Wonderland."

Sow Tomato Seed Indoors Now

Between Christmas and New Year the owner of a small heated greenhouse or a sunporch performs an annual ritual, that of sowing a few tomato seeds.

This may not sound exceptionally fascinating after the glow and glitter of Christmas, nor compared with the plans for New Year, but the benefit and pleasure comes later.

Jack

The plants from these seeds will be bearing vine-ripened fruits in the greenhouse early in June when fresh lettuce, spring onions and radishes are ready for the first salads.

It is then the family apologizes for the things that were said about Dad having to sow his tomato seeds before leaving for a party or a show.

Since tomato seeds usually germinate well there is no need to sow a large quantity. Twice as many seeds as the number of plants that will be needed should take care of all contingencies.

A small pot is as good as anything for this purpose. Put a piece of broken pot over the hole in the bottom and then fill to within one-half inch of the rim with a regular seed mixture, such as equal parts of sand and compost, or equal parts of sand, soil, and peat moss.

The half dozen or so seeds are placed on top, well spaced, and barely covered with a little of the mixture put through a piece of fly screen.

The pot is placed in water until the surface shows damp, then drained, covered with a piece of glass to keep in the moisture, and a piece of brown paper to keep out the light.

It then goes close to the heater where a temperature around 60 to 70 degrees F. can be maintained until the seeds start popping. If the top soil commences to dry during this period, resoil the pot in water.

After germination a cooler spot with plenty of light will produce sturdy little seedlings to put into separate three-inch pots just before the first true leaves are visible.

Big pots (eight-inch) or deep boxes, with a rich soil mixture can be ready to receive the plants when they have outgrown their first pots.

Thereafter the plants will make rapid progress.

Industrials Show Gain at Toronto

After showing an easing in the first hour, industrials came back to show an index gain in trading today on the Toronto stock market. Trading was moderate.

In the main, Moore Corporation, Imperial Oil and Interprovincial Pipe Line all advanced in a 1/4 to 1/2 range. Distillers-Scagrams, Dominion Bridge, Algoma Steel and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines all advanced 1/2.

Canada Bread B showed the sharpest jump, gaining 14 points to a year's peak of 70.

Canada Bank Closes Out Dollar Swap

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Bank of Canada has closed out the currency exchange arrangements made last June as part of the government's program to meet a national financial emergency, it was announced today.

A statement by the central bank said $75 million in United States currency was exchanged with federal reserve bank of New York Wednesday to completely reverse the $250 million swap arranged with the U.S. institution six months ago.

At the same time, another $25 million was exchanged with the Bank of England to close out the $100 million swap negotiated with the British central bank.

The Bank of Canada said the U.S. exchange was placed "on a standby basis," while the British swap was terminated.

The exchange arrangements, under which the Canadian bank swapped Canadian dollars for U.S. funds to bolster its exchange holdings, were worked out to strengthen the country's foreign exchange fund after a steady drain reached crisis proportions by mid-June. Since then, the run of the Canadian dollar has ceased, the exchange has been built up by more than $1 billion, and Canada has been able to reverse both the U.S. and British exchanges.

Challenge Faces Mining Industry

TORONTO (CP)—The coming year will be one of challenges and opportunities, and the mining industry is very well equipped to take advantage of them, says a statement by Y. C. Wansbrough, vice-president and managing director of the Canadian Metal Mining Association.

The mining industry starts 1963 in a generally healthy condition, Mr. Wansbrough comments. He adds: "While nearly all metal products, with the notable exception of silver, remain in over-supply, prices have remained pretty firm, and the industry benefited during 1962 by the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The effects of this favorable factor should continue to be felt into 1963 as a substantial stimulus to exports.

In British Columbia the industry has responded with vigorous expansion to the requirements of the Japanese market. Europe, especially the Common Market countries, presents growing demands for metals and metal products.

In the United States, which remains Canada's best customer, President Kennedy's proposed tax-cut could well result in stimulated business growth, with increased market opportunities."

France Drops 'New Franc' As of Jan. 1

PARIS (AP)—As of New Year's Day, the French monetary unit will again be the franc instead of the new franc.

The French government has adopted a decree re-establishing the franc as the official name and the centime as a division of the franc.

New bills and coins to be issued will include 10- and 50-franc bills, and five- and 20-centime coins. As before, there will be 100 centimes to the franc.

The franc, like the new franc, will be worth about 21 cents.

In the currency reform about four years ago, the franc was replaced by the "new franc" at the ratio of 100 to one, thus dropping the last two zeros on bills in circulation.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices were firm with rallying tendencies evident in dull trade today near the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Operations were limited by the extended holiday season and the United States dock strike lent caution to the trade.

Fair buying in barley came from exporters and shippers. Trade reports indicated a cargo of malting barley sold to the United Kingdom within the last few days.

Rye trade continued firm featuring light offerings and some United States demand. Oats trade was domestic.

CHICAGO (AP)—A revived demand for grain futures carried the market into active short covering in the early afternoon today with numerous contracts showing gains of major fractions or more.

on a turnover of 25 shares. Churning prices created a mixed picture in trading today on Wall Street. Typical year-end transactions to establish tax gains or losses, and switches by investment funds created the usual confused pattern. Few highlights emerged.

Dockers Tie Up U.S. East Coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve-cargo of Canadian-grown seed crack that developed in their docks in Charleston, S.C., have potatoes today as striking long-paralyzing work stoppages on cancelled plans to unload a shoremen shored up the single east and gulf coast ports.

COMINCO APPOINTMENTS

R. D. PERRY

D. D. MORRIS

J. H. SALTER

Following a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited in Montreal, W. S. Kirkpatrick, president, announced the appointment January 1, 1963, of Ralph D. Perry as vice-president at Montreal, D. D. Morris as vice-president and general manager, and J. H. Salter as assistant general manager.

Mr. Perry has been with Cominco at Trail since 1928. He held senior positions in the Company's metallurgical, research and personnel divisions prior to his appointment in 1956 to vice-president and general manager. He will be moving to Montreal early in the new year.

Mr. Morris of Trail, named to succeed Mr. Perry, has been with Cominco for 34 years, mainly in chemical production and research. He was appointed assistant general manager in 1956.

Mr. Salter of Trail is currently general superintendent of the Company's chemicals and fertilizers divisions. He joined Cominco in 1934.

The Charleston local of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA-CIO) broke the strike order Wednesday to unload bananas. But the stevedores cancelled plans to unload the potatoes today—under pressure from top union officials. South Carolina farmers, hard-hit because of poor fall crops, had appealed to the union to unload the potatoes before they sprout.

Capt. William V. Bradley, ILA president, said the Charleston local could lose its charter for unloading the bananas.

In Galveston, Tex., about 100 dockworkers who belong to an organization not connected with the striking longshoremen crossed picket lines under police supervision to unload a Swedish banana boat. There was no violence.

Otherwise, the strike has effectively closed all east and gulf coast ports to all but military, dangerous or emergency cargoes, which the ILA itself has exempted from the strike provisions.

No bargaining sessions were scheduled for today.

Key issue in the dispute is the size of dock work gangs, which the ship owners want cut from the present minimum of 20 to 17. The longshoremen refused, saying they will not negotiate their members' out of jobs in the name of automation.

RUSSIAN A-TESTS CONTINUE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without specifying a figure, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced today the Soviet Union set off "a number of atmospheric nuclear tests" during the three-day period Dec. 23-25. At least four and perhaps five such tests have been reported from Swedish and Japanese observatories during that period.

Thalidomide Claim Backed

LONDON (Reuters) — The father of an armless baby will get financial backing through Britain's Law Society in his high court action against the makers of the tranquilizer drug thalidomide. It was disclosed today.

Librarian Edward Satherley, who lives on the Isle of Wight, off Britain's south coast, claims damages from Distillers (Biochemicals) Company, which produced the drug alleged to cause deformities in unborn babies.

He alleges that his 12-month-old Richard was born without arms because his wife Betty was supplied with thalidomide under Britain's national health service during her pregnancy. After nearly four months' investigation, the Law Society's legal aid committee decided to support the action—a test case for more than 300 thalidomide babies in Britain.

Michael Carr-Jones, chairman of the Society for the Aid of Thalidomide Children, told reporters 12 other parents have applied for legal aid so they can take court action.

HAS ROCKETS, WILL FIRE

Yemen Warns Neighbors

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Yemen's republican regime boasted today that its army possesses modern rockets and threatened to use them against the royal palaces in Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

The claim and the threat were made in a broadcast from Sana'a, the Yemeni capital, describing an hour's military parade celebrating the three-month anniversary of Field Marshal Abdullah Sallal's overthrow of the monarchy last September.

The announcer did not give the type, make or number of the rockets that were shown but said they were among the "latest modern rockets in the world." There was speculation that they came from the United Arab Republic and actually are controlled by U.A.R. troops which are bolstering the Yemeni regime.

The announcer said the rockets were "capable of reaching King Saud's Al Nassiriah palace" in the Saudi Arabian capital of Riyadh some 500 miles north of Sana'a.

"They are capable too of demolishing (Jordanian King Hussein's) Basman palace in Amman where Britain's high commissioner in the Arab east stays," the announcer added.

Sallal said in a broadcast speech at the parade that his regime is "building an army strong enough to liberate the entire Arabian peninsula."

SPLIT SEWN UP FOREVER

SEATTLE (AP)—A year ago a pretty Seattle girl's ski pants split at Stevens Pass and a gallant young man shed his jacket to conceal her embarrassment.

With that, a romance was born.

During the weekend, Margaret Shackelford, 21, and Allan Dietrich, 20, a Seattle landscaper, were married on the snowy slopes near the spot where they met.

The rites were performed at the top of the big chair lift, 1,500 feet above the summit of the pass. The young couple wore matching blue ski outfits.

The Dietrichs left after the ceremony for a honeymoon in Canada and "plenty of skiing."

Indoor City Dwellers Become 'Hot House Plants'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Looking at modern living, a physician says many of us may be falling victim to urbophrenia. That means city jitters.

Human crowding into big cities and suburbs has changed the climate in which we live—into an artificial climate which is too much indoors. Dr. Igor Hart Kornbluh of the University of Pennsylvania said today.

This fosters "a peculiar greenhouse existence" bringing on new and poorly understood health problems. Dr. Kornbluh told a symposium on biometry of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Biometry means the effect of weather and climate on life.

"The weariness and monotony of an immured existence within the confines of the residence and the place of employment" leaves its mark on the physical and mental capacity and productivity and creativity of humans, he said. Dr. Kornbluh is medical director of the department of physical medicine at the university's graduate hospital.

Such a "life-long, sheltered vegetation punctuated only by short periods of vacation may lead to urbophrenia" and result in physical, psychological and social disorders, he said.

Dr. Joseph Lee Hollander of the University of Pennsylvania reported scientific evidence backing up arthritis victims who say they can often predict weather because their pains grow worse before a storm.

A combined change of falling barometric or air pressure and rising humidity does tend to make arthritic joints more stiff and swollen, he said.

This was shown with volunteers living for two to four weeks in a chamber, the climate in which climate could be controlled artificially in various respects — without knowledge of the inmates.

Fire Kills Two

VANCOUVER (CP)—A partly-blind rooming house keeper and one of her tenants died early Sunday when fire swept through a three-storey frame house in the Grandview district of the city. Mrs. Mary Ferguson, 73, and retired pack-house worker Paul Oxenrider, 71, were overcome by smoke in a blaze started by a leaky oil burner.

CONSTABLE WOUNDED BY DERANGED MAN

CORNWALL (CP)—A 27-year-old police constable remained in critical condition Wednesday night after his lung was torn apart by a 12-gauge shotgun blast early Christmas Day.

Const. Fred McGillis underwent a six-hour operation, in which four surgeons patched up his left lung, Wednesday after he was shot by a man who barricaded himself in a bedroom and threatened to commit suicide.

A 31-year-old father of five, Albert Derochie, was charged with attempted murder.

In recent years, your airline's annual rate of growth has far exceeded that of Canada's population. TCA's expansion reflects leadership and sound planning. As Canadians have come to rely more and more on air transportation, TCA has been ready to fulfill their needs.

Some achievements and innovations. TCA's responsibility, of course, has been linking a huge, thinly-populated country tightly together—and, at the same time, building an asset worth $316 million.

But many smaller achievements have been part of this big one.

Excellence in engineering and aircraft maintenance have made TCA one of the world's most dependable airlines. Your airline has pioneered many advances in airline operations to improve reliability, including:

- X-ray examination of aircraft structures and engine components.
- Development of operations research techniques in aircraft maintenance.
- Application of the latest quality-control methods.
- Development of the "fail safe" concept in the basic design of aircraft and aircraft systems.

In 1955, TCA introduced turbine-powered flight to North America with the famous Vickers Viscount. Within a few years, it was operating a fleet of all-turbine aircraft (Viscounts, Vanguards and DC-8 jets... soon to be joined by DC-8F's, which will be used partly to provide the world's first jet freight service, on TCA's Trans-Atlantic routes).

Leadership

A TCA tradition... and a promise for the future.

Practically every Canadian citizen, young and old, benefits from another important innovation by TCA and the Canadian Post Office.

This is first-class mail carried between principal cities exclusively by air.

World-wide prestige. Time and again, TCA and its people have won international recognition for corporate and individual achievement. For example, J. T. Dymont, Chief Engineer for TCA, has brought honour to Canada—and your airline's role in world aviation. He has served as Chairman of the first international conference on Supersonic Air Transportation—attended by 600 experts from 25 countries—and more recently was appointed Chairman of IATA's Supersonic Advisory Committee.

Always alert to new concepts, TCA is applying miracles of electronic science to improve passenger service, management and control functions. Advanced computers are used in inventory control, accounting, engineering and other areas of operation.

The second quarter-century. These, along with many other achievements, add up to a promise for the future that TCA's owners—the people of Canada—can rely on.

Supersonic commercial flight and air travel developments that were science fiction when TCA first spread its wings are now just over the horizon. Because it is in the hands of competent and dedicated people, the tradition of leadership established in its first quarter-century will be maintained for Canadians by TCA in the challenging years ahead.

Battle Royal Mat Feature

The pounds will be packed into the ring all at once during the featured event at Saturday's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

An 11-man battle royal is arranged with Mike Valenti, Kiki, Shibuya, Mr. X, Sander Kovacs, Seymour Koenig, Roy McClarty, Gene Kiniski, Hercules Cortez, Clyde Steeves, Eric Froelich and Bill Wright participating.

To be eliminated, each grappler must make his "exit" over the top rope.

Five other bouts provide the evening's warmup, starting 8:15.

ESQUIMAULT CLICKS

Goals by Jimmy Black, Buck Chow and Bill Gandy provided Esquimalt of the first division a 3-2 victory over second division Drakes in a recent Victoria District Soccer League exhibition. Larry Fletcher and Don Priestman scored for Drakes.

Ungainly Kidd Again Named Canada's Best

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, a distance runner who drives perfectionists crazy with his ungainly orthodox style, is Canada's Outstanding Athlete of 1962, an honor he has won for the second consecutive year.

The 19-year-old star from Toronto, who combines a brilliant scholastic record with a unique career in world track circles, received the honors today from the country's sports editors and broadcasters. He won them easily.

The selectors, voting in the 28th annual Canadian Press year-end poll, boosted him to the top in two categories.

They made him their overwhelming choice among the males and then, asked to name the pick of the country—male or female, amateur or professional—they again settled for this lantern-jawed, crew-cut youngster considered somewhat of a track freak.

At 19, he's in a game that is supposed to be dominated by older men who take years to build up strength for the killing long-distance runs to nowhere. And, with arms flopping and head wagging, he breaks all the accepted rules of the sport while making a most creditable showing.

He topped off his remarkable track career a month ago when he whipped older and more experienced men in the British Empire Games six miles at Perth, Australia. That was Canada's first individual track gold medal in international competition since 1950.

Just 48 hours later, and with men who skipped the six waiting fresh and ready for him, the youngster with the engaging smile and great sense of humor, placed third behind veteran campaigner Murray Halberg of New Zealand and dark-horse Ron Clarke of Australia in the three miles. Gold and bronze medals were excellent pickings for a first-time effort in international company.

Then, to prove that he belonged, he entered the grueling marathon 72 hours later, was pulled out after 22 1/2 miles by coach Fred Foot but there was little doubt he could have finished the 26-mile, 385-yard course. Foot yanked him when he was fourth and with little hope of winning. He didn't want to take any chances of harming his protegee who never before had competed in a race of more than 15 miles.

BOBBY HULL SECOND

CP poll voters, who cast a record 156 ballots, applauded the second-year University of Toronto political science and economics student who has captured the imagination of world track experts. Despite his awkward style of running, they predict a great future for the youth who gets a kick out of training and who has said he would give it up if it became boring to him.

They were asked to name the three individual performers among men. In order of preference, and 88 made him their first choice, over established pros. Computed on a 3-2-1 basis, he received a whopping 365 against 216 for runner-up Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks, 50-goal scorer in the National Hockey League.

Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., probably the greatest figure skater the world has known and who turned pro after winning everything in sight in the amateur ranks, was third with 153 points. Hull and Jackson each polled 27 first-place votes.

Hornung, who has been alluded to as football's greatest living player, was moving as well as any time this season, and for the first time in more than two months launched a long series of booming kicks from placement.

Only Hornung and guard Jerry Kramer of the offensive unit bear threatening evidence of combat and despite a cracked rib Kramer has been taking his full turn in the drills.

The Packers were practicing again today, with the last drill scheduled for Friday, just before boarding a plane for New York.

Happy Days! Quakers Stop Czech Team 5-2

PRAGUE (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers defeated Czechoslovakia's ZKL team 5-2 in Brno Wednesday night for their second victory in five games with Czech teams.

The defeat was the first of the season for the ZKL club, seven-time champions of the Czech No. 1 league.

Six of the Czech national team players regularly skate with the ZKL team, which is considered the country's best outside of the national team.

Herb Jeffrey scored two of the Saskatoon goals, with Jackie McLeod, Charlie Goodwin and George Senick getting the others. Senick also assisted on two goals.

Frank Vanek and Karl Shopal were the hometown scorers. One of the goals came while the Quakers had two men sitting out penalties.

Of the 25 penalties handed out by the referee under European rules, 19 went to the Quakers, many of them for relatively minor infractions.

Five times the Saskatoon team defended its goal while the Czechs went ahead 1-0 in the first period and never looked back. They matched goals with the Czechs on the second period but outscored them 3-1 in the third.

Centre forward Ferd Bundschok's headed in the only goal of the first half. Right winger Roy Nosella, picking up Bundschok's rebound, and Tony Cantia, scoring on a long lob, counted Columbus on other goals.

Victoria United, finalists in the event last season, will make its first cup start by meeting Wallace Pilsener's Saturday at Victoria's Royal Athletic Park.

BRUCE RUNS AWAY WITH POLL

Runaway winner in annual Canadian Press poll to name Canada's outstanding athlete of 1962 is Toronto runner Bruce Kidd, who won gold and bronze medals at British Empire Games.

JEROME REMAINS ... IN HOSPITAL

“We think now he will be out sometime early in January,” said coach John Minichiello. It will probably be April before he is able to walk without crutches.

“That means there won't be any running during 1963,” Jerome, the hard-luck sprinter who is co-holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash, is planning a new assault on honors which have eluded him for two years.

He pulled up lame in the 1960 Rome Olympic Games and this year failed in the 100-yard dash in the British Empire Games at Perth. He limped in last in the final with a muscle tear.

Minichiello says Jerome will start slowly next year—possibly around September—to work his way in shape for a crack at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Northwesterners celebrated Christmas in fitting style during Wednesday night's IAA Commercial Hockey League doubleheader at Memorial Arena.

Bogged down in the cellar of the four-team league with only one victory in nine starts, the Creamery crew reached up to pull Duncans out of a tie for the top berth.

Playing their best game of the season, Northwesterners staged a three-goal outburst in the third period as they halted Duncans' steady climb toward the top by pulling out a 5-4 victory.

In the other game, Kings snapped the three-way deadlock with Dorman and Duncans by whipping Dorman 5-2. Anchoring Kings to their triumph was goalie Vince MacDonald, who turned aside 35 shots in a fine performance.

STONE SETS PACE
Dave Stone set the scoring pace for Kings, firing two goals and picking up an assist.

Base Stealer 'Man of Year'
NEW YORK (AP)—Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers has been named Man of the Year in sports Wednesday by Sports magazine for stealing 104 bases during the major league baseball season.

Other athletes honored in their particular fields included: Jim Taylor of Green Bay, pro football; Wilt Chamberlain of San Francisco, pro basketball; Bobby Hull of Chicago, pro hockey; Dick Tiger, boxing; Arnold Palmer, golf; Rod Laver, tennis; Willie Shoemaker, horse racing; Peter Snell, track and field; Bobby Bell, Minnesota, college football; Paul Hogue, Cincinnati, college basketball; and Chet Jamstrenski, Indiana, swimming.

Former Boxer Shot to Death
TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Former boxer Rhee Roy, 33, was shot to death Wednesday.

Police are holding one man for questioning about the early-morning killing in a Trois-Rivieres home.

Roy, who used to box in the Montreal area, was struck near the heart by a 30-30 bullet fired at point-blank range and died almost immediately, police said.

No motive for the shooting has yet been determined.

Political Game Beckons Banks
CHICAGO (AP)—Club owner Phil Wrigley has given first baseman Ernie Banks the green light to run for the post of Chicago alderman.

Banks reportedly was approached by a prominent Republican and asked to run in his South Side ward against incumbent Democrat James Condon.

Chicago candidates for aldermen run on a non-partisan ballot in the Feb. 26 primary.

FAVORITE FORGOTTEN
“And There They Go—Hey, Chartcaller”

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—They forgot a horse in the fifth race at Tropical Park Tuesday—and it happened to be an odds-on favorite on which the crowd had wagered $45,597 out of a total pool of $104,741.

It was a 10-horse field and nine horses were in the gate as starter Buddy Wingfield prepared to press the button to get the race under way.

Chartcaller, the 4-5 favorite, approached the No. 9 stall and appeared ready to go in without incident. Suddenly he wheeled backward as he was led back toward the gate.

Wingfield opened the gates. Chartcaller was five feet away.

Rockland, a 35-1 shot, went on to win the race. Chartcaller became a scratched horse and all money bet on him was refunded.

Rockland paid $44.70 instead of $72.

Powerful Aussies Sweep Davis Cup

Laver, Emerson Smash to Win Over Mexicans

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Flery Rod Laver and steady Roy Emerson crushed Mexico's Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, in 70 minutes of slashing doubles today to give Australia its 11th Davis Cup victory in 13 years.

The triumph also brought this tennis-minded continent even with the United States in cup victories since the big international tennis competition was launched in 1900. Each has won 15 times.

A surprisingly easy straight-set sweep by the Australians following the opening singles conquests Wednesday gave the team a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five match series and turned Friday's two singles matches into a mere formality.

In those, Osuna will face veteran Neale Fraser and Palafox meets Laver, the grand-slam champion of amateur tennis who Saturday is expected to announce acceptance of a $100,000 professional contract.

Palafox obviously suffered a letdown after being defeated by Fraser Wednesday.

DIDN'T RECOVER
While Osuna fought hard and played brilliantly at times, Palafox never recovered his marvellous touch.

The doubles match was played before a small crowd of 6,500 in blazing sunshine in contrast to the opening day, when the singles were staged on a damp court with two interruptions by rain.

The Australians took charge immediately in the first set, with Laver and Emerson blasting across their services with such power that it was the eighth game before the Mexicans could get a point on the Australians' delivery.

In the 11th game Laver lashed a volley between Osuna and Palafox for advantage and on the next point, sent a backhand shot zipping down the line. The linesman called it good and the Australians had their first service break.

CRITICAL POINT
Palafox started at the line in disbelief and Mexico's captain Pancho Contreras came bounding out of his chair. Contreras said later his boys were upset over the call, which came at such a critical stage in the match.

“Up to that point the match was even,” the Mexican captain said, Laver said he wasn't sure whether the ball was in or out because he lunged past the umpire's chair after making the shot. However, Emerson said he thought the ball was out.

In Wednesday's singles matches, Laver's crushing brand of tennis swept him to Osuna in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5. Neale Fraser, 29-year-old semi-retired former Wimbledon champion, defeated Palafox 7-5, 6-3, 6-4, 11-9 in a two-hour and 50-minute marathon.

Cricket Test Bows to Rain
ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters)—Rain, which brought an early finish, caused the touring Marylebone Cricket Club's match with South Australia to end in a draw here today.

South Australia, set to make 304 in four hours for victory, finished with 113 for 4. Garfield Sobers making a brilliant 75 not out.

Scores: MCC 586 for 5 declared and 167 for 6 declared; South Australia 450 and 113 for 4.

Goyette, Langlois Spend Grim Xmas

TORONTO (CP)—Almost every way you look at it, it was a bad Christmas for Al Langlois and Phil Goyette.

First of all, both were away from home.

Goyette, a forward with Montreal Canadiens, was in Chicago for a National Hockey League game against Chicago Black Hawks which Canadiens won 6-0.

Langlois, a New York Ranger defenceman, was in Boston where the last-place Bruins whipped New York 6-2.

But, worst of all, both suffered broken limbs.

Goyette, perhaps sidelined for the season, broke his ankle when he collided with Chicago's Eric Nesterenko. It was placed in a cast Wednesday.

Langlois broke his left instep and is out of the Ranger lineup for two or three weeks. Other players also had their holiday marred.

Big Elmer Vasko, Chicago defenceman, is in a Chicago hospital for treatment to a sprained ankle, which he injured two weeks ago.

Val Fonteyne of Detroit Red Wings made it through Christmas without a mishap but was checked heavily into the boards by Dick Duff of Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night and suffered a concussion.

Fonteyne spent the night in a Toronto hospital. Christmas is a time for celebrating—but not for everybody.

MAHOVLICH SIZZLES
Meanwhile, Frank Mahovlich continues his amazing ways.

The big Toronto winger scored his 22nd goal of the season and added three assists Wednesday night to spark the Leafs to a 5-4 win over Detroit Red Wings. It was the only NHL game of the night.

The win enabled Toronto to move into a tie for first place with Chicago Black Hawks, two points ahead of the third-place Wings.

For Mahovlich, it was his 15th goal in the last 15 games. He has now scored in five consecutive games. The 195-pound left winger also roared into first place in the league scoring race with 36 points, a four-point edge over Andy Bathgate of New York.

In avenging a 2-1 loss in Detroit Christmas Eve, the Leafs used tactics that are becoming their trademark: A scoring blitz, followed by reliance on defensive strength.

TRAILED 2-0
The Leafs were trailing 2-0 going into the second period, but powered home four goals in 13 minutes to take a lead they maintained for the rest of the game despite a Detroit onslaught.

Johnny Bower in the Toronto nets made several key saves in the last few minutes of play. He came up with 38 stops in the game, compared with 32 for Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk.

In the third period, Mahovlich made a key play. The muscular 24-year-old made a spectacular solo rush the length of the ice, but the close checking of Detroit defenceman Pete Goegan held him to a weak shot.

Linemate Eddie Shack alertly rapped in the rebound, giving Leafs a 5-3 lead with 15 minutes left to play. It proved to be the winning goal.

Quick Flurry Hits Canucks

By The Canadian Press

When Calgary Stampedeers finally win a Western Hockey League game they do it in a big way.

Victory No. 8 of the season came Wednesday night with a four-goal flourish that belied their last-place position in the Northern Division.

They entered the second period leading 2-1, scored four times in 10 minutes, and skated off 6-2 winners over Spokane Comets.

Vancouver Canucks and Los Angeles Blades fought evenly for 55 minutes before a quick pair of goals sent Blades on their way to a 6-3 victory, first of their current road trip.

Canucks' home loss set the stage for a key Northern Division battle Saturday night, when Seattle Totems pay a visit to Vancouver. Canucks lead standings with 32 points, Totems have 31.

Blades advanced to sole possession of second place in the Southern Division.

Calgary scorers Wednesday night were Eric Sutcliffe, with his first of professional hockey—Fred Hucal, Cal McDonald, George McAvoy, Milan Marcetta and Ron Leopold. Connie Madigan and Gerry Brisson scored for Spokane.

RETURN MATCH SET

BANGKOK (AP)—The return title match between Japan's world flyweight boxing champion Fighting Harada and Pone Kingpetch of Bangkok will be held in Bangkok, Jan. 12.

ver began with the score at 3-3 on Vancouver goals by Buddy Boone, Bob Kabel and Dave Duke, and Los Angeles goals by Lloyd Haddon with two and Willie O'Ree.

At 15:02, with overtime approaching, Bruce Carmichael intercepted a clearing attempt to score from five feet. And 48 seconds later Carmichael set up linemate Bob Solinger for the clincher. Frank Arnett made it 6-3 with a bonus goal in the last minute.

Unlucky Bruins Can't Avoid 13

New Westminster Royals weren't ready to play "give-away" this holiday season, and it just wasn't in the books for Esquimalt Bruins to meddle with unlucky 13.

Bob Fenton's Royals padded their Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League lead to four points Wednesday by handing Bruins a 10-5 Boxing Day lacing at Esquimalt's Sports Centre.

It was the 13th straight setback for Bruins. Bruins deserved a better fate. Esquimalt's attack showed more polish and positional play than it had in the past. Royals' quick-to-capitalise forwards—who started with a five-goal outburst in the first period—kept the Bruins suffering, how ever.

Royals, outscored 4-2 in the second period, pumped in five goals in the space of seven minutes late in the first period.

Floyd-Sonny Pact Irks Boxing Brass

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two high officials of the World Boxing Association blasted the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title return bout contract Monday.

One said that any state or country accepting an immediate return fight should be suspended from the WBA and the other, president of the organization, agreed.

Emile Bruneau, chairman of the WBA's world championship committee, said his committee would recommend the automatic suspension from the WBA of any state or country that accepted a rematch.

He said that Patterson, dethroned in two minutes; six seconds of the first round at Chicago last Sept. 25, shouldn't get a shot at the world heavyweight crown until he earns it by fighting other challengers.

"I'd say that Mr. Bruneau pretty well expressed the opinion of all of us," said Dr.

Charles P. Larson, president of the WBA, at Tacoma, Wash.

"We will support that recommendation," Bruneau, in an interview with newspaper men, displayed copies of what he said were clauses in the contract, and said:

"I've never read a contract more binding on a fighter than this one. I'm surprised that they (the Patterson camp) didn't force Liston to cut off his legs before getting into the ring with Patterson."

The contract stipulated that Liston must give Patterson a rematch or pay up to 30 per cent of future purses until he has paid Patterson $1,000,000, Bruneau said.

"According to the contract," Bruneau said, "Liston's only avenue of escape from a rematch with Patterson would be for the ex-champ to become permanently incapacitated or for Patterson to refuse to fight Sonny again."

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY
GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other interesting prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by mail—free of charge and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answers each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Thomas Carolyn, age 14, of Bridgeport, Conn., for his question:

What are the animals called flukes?

Not all the animals are as cute as kittens or as docile as dogs. There are also tigers. But man, the hunter, learned long ago how to protect himself and his family from these large menaces. The tiny flukes are another matter. They are parasites, more deadly than tigers. Mankind has had to use very different hunting skills to cope with them.

The animal phylum Platyhelminthes—meaning flatworms—includes some 6,000 species, and the count is far from complete. A few giants measure almost an inch, but most of them are microscopic. All of them are soft-bodied animals without bones, circulatory or breathing systems. They are equipped with suckers or hooks and some have both.

The big phylum is divided into three classes. Class I includes the true flatworms, which are free-living water dwellers. The flukes are in Class II, and the tapeworms in Class III, and no member of either of these flatworm classes can make a living for itself. All of them are parasites. The flukes develop from microscopic eggs through a number of larval stages. The four different stages in the life cycle of a butterfly seem very complex. But some of the flukes pass through half a dozen widely different stages of development. Some live their whole life cycle in the same host animal. They tend to attack the internal organs of fish, the skin or internal organs of reptiles and other cold-blooded animals.

We know of some 3,000 different flukes, each with its own life story. Most of them change from one host to another as they develop from stage to stage. The eggs of one fluke must find a certain snail before they can become larvae, and the larvae must find a certain species of fish in order to reach the next stage of development. The fish and the snail are called intermediate hosts.

Produces Billions of Eggs

The fluke reaches its adult stage in a final host, where it feeds on the special tissue it needs to mature and produce eggs. The final host may be man or some wild or domestic animal. In some countries, whole populations are weakened by liver flukes which are eaten in raw fish. In other countries, human beings and animals are attacked by blood flukes and lung flukes which reach their final hosts through careless sewage or impure water supplies.

The fluke, which needs a number of different hosts, has a very hazardous life, and billions of eggs must be produced in order that a few may reach maturity. At a certain stage, the larvae must transfer to a new host within a few hours or perish. Each intermediate host must be a certain species of fish, snail or other animal. However, the fluke may not be so choosy about its final host. At this stage, the lung fluke, for example, will attack the lung tissue of man, cattle and other warm-blooded animals.

$54,000 Grant
Going to Jubilee

A federal grant of $54,000 to Royal Jubilee Hospital has been announced by the department of national health and welfare in Ottawa.

The money will go towards a current expansion of the hospital's psychiatric unit by 20 beds.

Part of the money also will help with renovation of the hospital's elevator system.

U.K. to Send Experts

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, under one of the heaviest attacks of his career, will send a team of experts to Washington early next year, to settle details of his missile deal with President Kennedy.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Franklin Cockerill, age 10, of Gretna, Neb., for his question:

What is the midnight sun?

We are used to the fact that summer days are longer than winter days. But if we travel south toward the equator, the summer days are not quite so long. If we travel to the north, the summer days are even longer. In the far north, the midsummer sun sets for only a few hours each night.

The midsummer nights get shorter and shorter the farther north we go. In northern Scandinavia, the midsummer sun dips to the horizon and starts to rise again. The sun is in the sky when the clock says it is midnight.

North of the Arctic Circle, the summer sun does not set for weeks or months. In these regions, the midnight sun is in the sky all through the summer season.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Helpful Hints
For Resolutions

By JACK HUTTON

It's that time of year again—the resting period between Christmas and New Year's Eve when a few thoughtful adults prepare their resolutions.

Why shouldn't Canadian teen-agers try writing a few of their own?

Just in case that prospect leaves you tongue-tied, a teenage friend of mine has kindly agreed to let the rest of you see his examples for 1963.

1. I will stop calling dad the "Boss Nova" because he thinks it means "bossy."

2. I will meekly volunteer to wash the dishes two or three nights a week—even though I hope like mad that my help isn't needed.

3. I will rush outside to shovel off the walk every time it snows. (This means, of course, that no one should criticize my TV watching for three hours after that.)

4. I will not refer to either mom or dad as the "warden" in future when they make it known to my friends that I have a curfew to meet after a week night date.

5. I will read at least one good book each two or three weeks during 1963 and will not ask for the family car too often, at least no more often than five nights a week.

6. I want to improve my mind. Therefore, I will cut down on watching TV cowboys. I'm going to watch the private detectives instead.

7. I am going to make a determined effort to tolerate the eccentricities of my brothers and sisters—until the first time that my sister tries wearing my favorite sweater again.

8. I am going to stop driving down to the drug store and the corner grocery because I need the exercise. (I wonder how I'd make out hitch-hiking instead.)

9. Why should I go around with just one girl when others haven't had the pleasure of my company on a date? I'm going to make a firm effort to take out more lucky girls in 1963.

10. I shall not reveal these resolutions to my family because there is a sneaky chance they might make me live up to them.

Serious Affair

My friend who penned the resolutions above added a semi-serious postscript. "Have you ever watched adults making up their annual New Year's list of things to do or don't?" he asked.

"Around my family, it's a very serious affair. Dad starts thinking about his a week or 10 days in advance, and we help him polish some of the phrases around the breakfast table.

"Friends of his who drop in before or during the holiday season sit around for half an hour at a time while he explains what he has resolved to do or not to do.

"They all look very impressed, at least the first year they do. And we all agree that things are going to be different next year. No more leaving the toaster or leaving soap in hot water.

"But wait until two weeks after New Year's Day. Things will be right back to normal—and we're already thinking about what the next list of resolutions will be!"

Voyage at End

SAN SALVADOR, Bahamas (Reuters)—The crew of Nina II, a close copy of one of the three vessels with which Christopher Columbus made his 15th-century voyage to the New World, came ashore here Wednesday and celebrated mass after a trans-Atlantic journey of 97 days.

The crew attended mass in 15th-century garb after a journey in which their 40-foot caravel was blown thousands of miles off course.

This tiny Bahamas island off the Florida coast also was the first land sighted by Columbus in 1492, after 70 days at sea.

There was a party on the island Wednesday night for the men who followed in the nautical footsteps of Columbus.

The Nina II, which left Spain Sept. 19, was the focal point of an air and sea search before it was spotted Nov. 30.

The vessel is commanded by a Spanish naval officer and the crew includes a Frenchman and an American writer acting as chronicler.

Today the nine men will re-enact Columbus' arrival at the beach where the Italian discoverer first stepped ashore in the New World.

The Nina II depended on sails and 15th-century navigation instruments until United States Navy airmen dropped a radio to her last month.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—So here they are, folks, my 1962 "Broadway Bests," the new Top Twenty of Show Biz, people who will be either famous—or forgotten—next year this time. Right now they're hotter than Hades.

Top of the Tops: Robert Gould!

And: Carol Burnett, Vaughn Meader, Allan Sherman, Anthony Newley, Peter Duchin, Jane Fonda, Peter O'Toole ("Lawrence of Arabia"), Milt Kamen, Guy Marks, and also: Susan Kohner, Christine Kaufmann, Merv Griffin, Frank Fontaine, Eddie Adams, Peter Falk, Sandy Stewart, of course Natalie Wood—who's becoming the Sex-Symbol, Eddie Fisher, for his comeback, and Teddy Kennedy. (Oh, he's not in Show Biz? Pardon me).

Jayne Mansfield was all atwitter as she phoned from Hollywood that she was flying here to meet her Italian lover, Enrico Bomba, who was rushing in from Rome. "Was to be their first rendezvous in America, at the Astro. Jayne frankly hopes to marry the director if he can unburden himself of a narrow-minded wife.

Star halfback Alex Webster of the N.Y. Giants got so much hand-clapping and back-slapping in P. J. Clark's, it took 15 minutes to progress from the front door to the back room. "Honey," said his wife, "if it took you that long to gain 10 yards on the football field, we'd be unemployed."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Molly Picon was taken ill and rushed to Beth Israel Hospital for tests. Diana Goldberg, her understudy, took over in "Milk and Honey." The get-around-kid Eddie Fisher dated Eddie Adams here, after having a "business conference" with Natalie Wood about a picture he wants to produce... The picture, "Freud," doing great business, may use sky-writing over N.Y. to quote the critics... Del Shofner, the great N.Y. Giants end, marries California society gal-Carol Seely Jan. 5 in Pasadena.

Crazy town: They've got live monkeys at the Hawaii Kat restaurant. "Are those tree monkeys?" we asked a hatchick. "No," she said—counting—"five."

An east side night club has this cheery message on its poster inviting patrons to its New Year's Eve revelry: "End It All Here!"... Alexander King's titled his next book, "Is There a Life After Birth?" (Understand he decides there isn't)... Composer Don Elliott, who's finishing the new James Thurber show, "The Beast in Me," flew to Aruba to wind it up, taking along his bride and mgr., Doris Weiss... Veronica Lake, now disc-jockeying in Baltimore, flashed friends that she married Ron House.

One of the losers in Sydney Chaplin's folded show, "In the Counting House," was Toledan Lennie Fruchtman, owner of "Ballyache," who flew 22 friends in for the show. He invested through his friendship for actor Harold Gary, the double-talker who worked with the late Willie Howard. Asked whether he might be an angel again—it was his first time—he replied, "I might."

EARL'S PEARLS: "To make a man happy, treat him like a dog," says Cyd Charisse... "Plenty of affection and a loose leash."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Little dresses"—are recommended by a fashion writer. Evidently, "the littler the dress, the bigger the evening"—DJZ in the Augusta, Kan., Gazette.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Epitaph of a Failure: He went around all his life trying to find a boss as smart as he was"—Laugh Book.

A tourist is a chap who travels because he finds home a big bore, then complains that in other parts of the world things aren't the same... That's earl, brother.

Is It the Air or the Beer?

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Maybe that long-sought cure for the common cold is lurking around a brewery.

Forty-two St. Paul men who work in the chilly cellars and filter room of the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Company claim not to have had a cold or flu for as long as 31 years.

The cold-free periods range from nine to 31 years, as long as the men have gone to work daily in temperatures between 32 and 47 degrees.

Dr. Floyd A. Thompson, the company doctor, agrees it's "pretty amazing."

"But it is a fact," he said. "It's been checked."

TWO DIE IN PLUNGE

GIBSONS (CP)—Two men were killed and two others injured Wednesday morning when their car left the Gibsons-Schelt highway and plunged into Roberts Creek. Victims were Raymond Benn, 22, of North Burnaby, and Ted Fearn, 23, of Gibsons. Fearn's father and brother drowned Jan. 21 when their gillnetter sank during a storm in Howe Sound. Robert Speck, 22, and Tom Emerson, 22, were treated in hospital.

Bail Granted Youths Guilty of Rampage

Christmas-bail of $250 was awarded two youths who pleaded guilty in city police court Monday of doing nearly $800 damage to a local school and fobbing two stores.

John Nelson Fleming, 16, of 163 Olive, and Joseph Botte, 16, of 1079 Willow, admitted breaking into S. J. Willis Junior High School Nov. 24.

There they tore an intercommunication telephone receiver off the hook, smashed several doors, splattered eight gallons of paint around the art room, stole ice cream from the cafeteria, and tore up sheet music and books in the music room.

They also stole $17.90-worth of flashlights and other material from Gordon Fish Ltd. auto parts, 1319 Quadra, on Dec. 8, and $60 cash, razors and a honing stone from Fairfield Barber Shop, 309 Cook, on Dec. 15.

An order of restitution was issued in each case.

Ex-Senator Dies

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. (CP)—Former Liberal Senator Thomas Farquhar, 87, who announced his retirement recently, died at his home here Monday night following a lengthy illness. Mr. Farquhar was former Prime Minister St. Laurent's first appointment to the Senate.

Will Seek Office

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Chung Hee Park, South Korea's strongman leader, announced Wednesday that he and other members of the military government will run for office in elections scheduled for next spring.

ARTHUR MAYSE

When last we met in this corner, I offered certain verses based on the legend that animals receive the gift of speech each Christmas Eve at midnight. Since then, without exception, those who chose to comment on my hastily contrived effort have asked this question or variations thereof:

"Did you write it yourself?"

This reaction puzzles me. If it hadn't been my own work, I'd have ascribed a source. Not to do so would be plagiarism, a form of theft on a par with stealing lights off your neighbor's outdoor Christmas scene.

Part of the answer, I think, is that poetry and its poor relation, verse, have been all but crowded from the lives we pursue in a jangled age where education has been succeeded by training.

When we do encounter the stuff, we're uncomfortable with it, and unless it achieves precarious respectability by a recognized label—Robert Frost, Dylan Thomas or the like—we'd as soon not entertain it in our living rooms.

On the local level, its connotations tend to be "satiric." It is expected of the rebellious young that they will turn away from any such questionable nonsense about the time they can buy a legal drink.

In plain fact, I suspect most of us feel there's something wrong with anyone who reads verse, let alone takes an occasional whirl at writing it.

One reason for the prevailing attitude toward poetry—indifference often bordering on antipathy—is that students are exposed to it in a manner guaranteed to establish a lively distaste in all but the most persevering.

What should and could be one of the more amiable facets of a liberal education is turned into the dreariest of all drudgery.

It is my firm conviction that a poem should be taken in the round. The student, for examination purposes, should know who wrote it, but should not be required to echo back someone else's generally faulty analysis of what the poet had in mind when he said this and so.

To peck a poem to fragments in this the accepted school method is to ruin it. The thing makes its effect as a painting does—at first inspection or not at all. It is the total, personal impression that counts.

Most children like poetry until school spoils it for them. Some actually do retain a well-masked liking, in spite of English Lit. exams which they are required to prepare for by stuffing themselves like sausages with the most inconsequential of trivia.

Realizing this, the wise teacher will introduce a new poem or play by reading it through, without comment. That way, something of value may remain even after poem or play has been laid out for the inevitable dissection.

Curiously, we're most willing to accept poetry when it isn't offered to us as such.

Take away the identifying placard, and we approach it informally, in a frame of mind to enjoy it. Stubborn stuff, it can sneak up on us as the lyric of a popular song. "My Fair Lady" gave us some good verse and a poem or two. So, in earlier years, did "South Pacific."

If you are privileged to attend a Cathedral performance of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," this week or next, you'll be absorbing poetry as fine as any written in recent years.

To anyone interested, I suggest for a trial encounter with poetry, "John Brown's Body," by Stephen Vincent Benet. Parts of it should be—put perhaps luckily, aren't—in the school texts.

But don't try to analyze it. Just accept it as an experience in heightened living. The point I'd like to leave with you is that there's nothing queer or silly in an honest liking for poetry. I've worked with loggers who could string a swinging rhyme—and how I wish now that I'd had the sense to write down some of their casual songs!

SACRIFICE OF TREES CRITICIZED

Thousands of unwanted Christmas trees lie on city lots today, a forlorn holiday hang-over.

Soon they will be hauled away in trucks, dumped in the countryside and burned. They are the trees nobody would buy, the trees you could not even give away on Christmas Eve.

"It's a terrible waste," said a spokesman for the B.C. forest service.

B.C.'s million dollar Christmas tree business has finally overdone it.

There is so much competition nobody's benefiting very much—least of all the trees.

PRIVATE LAND
All trees on the coast come from private land.

"The government has no control over the cut whatever," said the forestry official.

It is against the law to cut a tree on crown land. But in the interior, where crown land trees are allowed, the industry is carefully regulated.

Last year 2,174,000 trees were cut in B.C. and sold for $1,300,000. This year the total is estimated at 2,500,000 trees. Langford alone supplied 6,500. Prices ranged from $7 to a giveaway at a Gorge Road store Monday night.

The problem is: too many people trying to make a buck and too little discrimination on the part of tree buyers, according to the forest service.

"If people were a bit more fussy then only the more attractive looking trees would be cut, and there wouldn't be so much waste," said the spokesman.

Tug Cleared Ice For Annual Swim

Swimmers could have used hot water bottle water wings in their 44th annual Christmas Day Inner Harbor swim.

A tug was called out to clear a 50-yard channel through a skim of ice for the six-man field of shivering aquasports, topped by youthful Monty Holding, with teen-ager Chris Tyrrell second.

Next day, Tyrrell put on a sprint to win the inaugural Boxing Day swim of the Penguin Club, held at Kinsmen Gorge Park, where 14 swimmers plunged into the icy-salt water.

This was organized by W. R. Wilkie, 798 Cave, whose wife and daughter Rachel took the plunge with him.

All-Sooke Day Princess Theresa Eddy, 17, of Milnes Landing, was winner of the endurance prize, staying in the pool nearly five minutes.

Esquimalt Coun. Bert Nelson was starter of the pool-wide swim, and Reeve A. C. Wurtele presented winners with prizes.

RADIOS STOLEN

Thief Waited In Store For Closing

A thief is believed to have hidden in a downtown store in order to rob it after closing time over the holiday.

Police were unable to find evidence of entry to Continental Home Supply Ltd., 851 Johnson, having been forced.

However, a hole had been punched through an internal gyproc partition between store-room and office.

Four transistor radios and $15.45 in cash were reported missing.

WINDOW SMASHED

A piece of iron had been hurled through a rear window of the premises in order to admit thieves.

An upstairs rear door to Harknett Fuel Ltd., 2333 Government, and an inner door were forced by thieves who made off with about three dollars in cash from an office.

Other articles may have been taken, police said.

On Christmas Day a neighbor reported the back door to 1658 Earle had been taken off its hinges while the owner, Finn Walters, was away on holiday.

It is not yet known whether anything is missing.

Holidays Marred By Fires

Faulty wiring is blamed for a fire which broke out in an upstairs suite of a Harbinger Road house on Boxing Day afternoon, causing about $1,500 damage.

The fire started in a clothes closet at 517 Harbinger about 2 p.m.

Owners of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rozell, called the city fire department after smoke was noticed coming from the closet.

No one was injured in the blaze.

Extensive damage was done to the attic and roof of the building, and a large amount of clothing was destroyed.

It was the second of two fires which marred the Christmas holidays.

TWO INJURED

Two people received minor injuries in a fire which broke out at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Vance, 2547 Garden, late Christmas Eve.

City fire lieutenant Harry Marrion, 433 Arnold, cut his hand smashing a window to release heat while fighting the blaze.

Earlier Frederick Randolph, 2451 Roseberry, cut his finger while smashing a window to see if anyone was in the burning building. However, Mrs. Vance was at work when the blaze started about 10:45 p.m.

The living room was gutted, and other rooms received smoke damage.

Cause of the fire is not known.

Diphtheria Death Fears Ruled Out

Preliminary pathological tests following death of a suspected diphtheria case here Boxing Day have shown the adult woman did not have the now rare disease, metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread said today.

He was commenting on growing rumors that a diphtheria death had occurred.

"The woman was seriously ill but it was terminal infection of the chest," said Dr. Whitbread.

He said when first symptoms resembling diphtheria occurred "we naturally took all the immediate precautions and got hold of the family contacts—but in actual fact that's all it was—precautionary."

"Laboratory tests have been made and they have all proved negative so far. We expect results of the final test tomorrow."

DEATH IN JAMAICA of John Michael Hewitt recalled "color bar" incident in 1954 when the Shawnigan Lake School teacher married Dorothy Holtz, shown here with him.

Jamaica Death Ends 'Shawnigan Story'

John Michael Hewitt, former science master at Shawnigan Lake School and central figure in a much-publicized "color bar" incident, died in Jamaica recently. He was 39.

In 1954, shortly before the fall term opened, he married Dorothy Holtz, a Jamaican fashion model and swimming champion, daughter of Noel Holtz, accountant general of Jamaica.

After four days, she left for Jamaica, claiming that school officials had snubbed her and hinted she should go home.

Mr. Hewitt said at the time his wife was told to leave the school because of her color. School officials claimed a misunderstanding. Repercussions were heard in both Canadian and Jamaican parliaments.

Mrs. Hewitt did not return from Jamaica until her husband had resigned his job at Shawnigan, and taken a teaching post at Alpha High School, Burnaby. In August, 1955, the couple left Vancouver for Jamaica.

At the time of his death, Mr. Hewitt was serving as deputy superintendent of the St. Thomas division, Jamaica Constabulary.

Born in Sussex, England, he was a lieutenant with special force troops in Burma during the Second World War, and was mentioned in dispatches.

Before going to Shawnigan, he was physical training instructor at Wolmer's Boys' School. He joined the Jamaica Constabulary in October, 1954.

He is survived by the widow and two children.

ASK The TIMES

Q. How many teeth has a swordfish? I.J.

A. None. It uses its sword, an extension of its upper jaw to secure its prey.

Q. Who was the first person to sail around the world? T.J.R.

A. Man's earliest circumnavigation of the globe was achieved by Sebastian del Cano in the Spanish ship Vitoria on Sept. 6, 1522. He was a navigator to Ferdinand Magellan who sailed from Spain Sept. 15, 1519—but was killed in the Philippines in April of 1521.

Anyone wishing a question answered, is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mrs. Marie Young, 72, of 2836 Rockwell, is reported in good condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital where she was admitted Christmas Eve after being knocked down by a car at Rockwell and Gorge. She suffered head injuries.

Driver of the car was Rodney Nesbit, 1168 Mitchell.

This was the only serious accident reported in the Greater Victoria area over the holiday, and police reported no more than the usual number of minor traffic accidents.

Only two men, one in the city and one in Saanich, were charged with impaired driving, in spite of police roadblocks.

NDP leader Tommy Douglas will propose the toast to the Immortal Memory at the annual Burns dinner of the Burns Club of Victoria in Hollywood House Jan. 25.

Tickets can be obtained from the Scottish Weaver Shop, 2534 Estevan Avenue, Oak Bay, and later at Eaton's box office.

Unitarian Fellowship of Victoria plans something different for the holiday season—an "Old Year's Party" to wind up 1962 with song and sociability. It starts at 8 p.m. Sunday in the War Amputations Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue.

Two pump trucks, a service vehicle and an aerial ladder wagon from the city fire department, with assorted police vehicles in attendance, rushed to the legislative buildings this morning in response to a fire alarm.

The alarm, which was raised about 10:30 a.m., proved to be false.

Stork Delivered Six 'Parcels' Christmas Day

Six little bundles of joy weren't found under the Christmas tree Tuesday morning.

They were Christmas presents all right, but they were delivered by the stork—not good old St. Nick.

Of the six Greater Victoria babies born Christmas Day, five were delivered in St. Joseph's Hospital: Baby girls were born to Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Felix, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bryke, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marsh, and Mr. and Mrs. James Archibald. A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.

Royal Jubilee Hospital had only one birth to report, a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sandeman-Allen.

A car reported stolen Christmas Eve crashed into a parked vehicle at Oxford and Linden Christmas night.

Two youths were seen running from the scene of the accident which took place about 10:20 p.m.

The late model sedan was believed turning off Oxford when it collided with a car belonging to Frank Thussen, 629 Harbinger, which was parked off Linden.

About $90 damage was done to both vehicles.

R. N. Pitzer, 490 Vancouver, is owner of the stolen car.

Zivko Komachina, Lincoln Hotel, pleaded guilty in city police court today to loitering and prowling on a Niagara Street property Christmas night.

He said he had been attracted by music and sounds of a party, and was seen looking in a ground floor window.

He was remanded to Jan. 4 for probation report and sentence.

Schools to Reopen Jan. 3, Radio Report Incorrect

School children in the Greater Victoria area will return to school Jan. 3.

Officials of the three school boards administering the area—school districts 61 (Victoria), 62 (Sooke), and 63 (Saanich)—expressed concern today about erroneous radio reports that school started Jan. 2.

"In opening the schools Jan. 3, we are following the directive of the department of education," said a spokesman.

University students will have a little longer to prepare for the start of classes.

Lectures at both Victoria College and the University of British Columbia begin Jan. 7, the first Monday in the New year.

Monday's Shopping Set All-Time Mark

Managers of two city department stores agreed today that Monday set a new pre-Christmas shopping record for their stores, if not the entire mercantile community.

"It was the best," Hudson's Bay Co. manager Howard McKay said.

Lloyd Davies, of Spencer's Stores, echoed: "It was definitely our record."

"It was one of the real big ones. We are very happy with that."

Managers said volume of trade and of customers were both remarkably high.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: 12:00 noon, Empress Hotel, children's Christmas party.

Mr. McKay pointed out: "We haven't had a Monday before Christmas for some years—it makes a difference compared with the weekend just before Christmas."

MEN IN MAJORITY
Contrasted with the other pre-Christmas shopping days, Monday was male-deadline day, with a predominance of men over women catching up the loose ends of last-minute purchasing.

Today was busy again, with many people taking advantage of marked-down items, and some taking in gifts for refunds and exchanges.

Mr. McKay said his store had Christmas cards at half-price, making today "just like Christmas" again in the department store.

Boys' Parliament Convenes Tonight

The 32nd annual Older Boys' Parliament will open tonight at 8 in the legislative chambers of the Parliament Buildings.

Sittings will be held Friday at 3 and 8:30 p.m. and Saturday at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Closing ceremonies will be held Monday at 2 p.m.

The idea of an older boys' parliament was conceived by the late Taylor Statten, national boys work secretary of the YMCA in Toronto in 1924. The Older Boys' Parliament has met each year in B.C. from Dec. 27-31 since 1930.

FINANCED BY BONDS
It is sponsored by a senate which is made up of two representatives from any Christian group represented in the parliament.

The parliament and its activities are financed through the sale of "bonds" which are termed "an investment in the youth."

In 1962, the parliament had a budget of more than $2,000, or a Challenge?

The main purpose of the organization, as stated in a member's oath is allegiance to the King of Kings. The member swears he will do all in his power to promote spiritual, mental, physical, and social development of boy life in B.C.

WORK THROUGH YEAR

The work of the boys is not finished when parliament closes on Monday. Throughout the year they participate in youth programs, assisting handicapped and underprivileged children.

Parliament members do the ground work in setting up leadership conferences throughout the province as well as conducting inter-denominational church services.

The parliament will be broken down in to two sections: morning-devotional periods at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the sittings. The theme of the devotional periods is "Christianity—A Crucial Challenge?"

SHOPPING GUIDE

Add Sparkle To Tresses A Scarf Prevents Messes

By Penny Saver

With the halls still decked with boughs of holly 'tis the season to add a streak of silver or gold to your latest coiffure.

For $1.35 you can buy a can of glitter spray which will add highlights to those locks already sprinkled with grey. All you do is spray it on, comb it through and there it is until the next shampoo.

Even if you can't already boast of a few grey hairs you can have fun adding a dramatic silver streak across the front. If you are wondering how to get by without buying another cocktail hat this season don't forget the bits of glitter you can sprinkle on your hair to imitate a whimsy. Small bottles of red, blue, turquoise and rose glitter are 50 cents. First, spray a lacquer on your hair, then dust on a few glittering specks or sparkling stars.

Once you have added all the spray and glitter drape a chiffon scarf loosely over your dazzling coiffure before you step out into the night breezes.

A three-way chiffon scarf in black, white, rose, blue, brown or tangerine can be worn as a glamorous hood, a fluffy scarf or a gay sash. To keep the scarf in place slip the loose end through a plastic loop on the other end. The price of this glamor hood is $1.50.

Priced at $1.98 and $2.98 are hat-wind bonnets in all shades, some plain and others made a little gayer with a few clusters of daisies (cause daisies won't tell).

If you are not going to be daring and wear a "make believe" whimsy you can still buy one at $1.98 and $2.98. The one that looked like the most fun had polka dots made of tufts of brown fur.

To find out where to buy all this glamor, phone Penny at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Technology, Longevity Have Given Man More Free Time

At the annual meeting of a council on the aging, a distinguished psychiatrist gave a most inspiring address.

He was speaking about man's dramatic struggle to adapt to leisure or free, unstructured time, and the fact that he is a psychologically and emotionally unprepared for it.

He said, "The rapid advance of technology, spearheaded by automation, together with increasing longevity, has given modern man a large measure of his latest and greatest freedom—free, unplanned time. The drastic and sudden nature of this change has caught man psychologically, emotionally and spiritually unprepared to adapt himself successfully and creatively."

He was speaking of older people and especially those who have retired. The same thing sometimes happens to the woman in the home. When her children grow up, and she has more free time, she is often the most restless and miserable person and hardly knows what to do with herself. The medical profession is recognizing the symptoms of this maladjustment.

The most important thing, he believed, is to discover the cause for this lack of adaptation. He says that we have been laboring under a dangerous misconception because of our immersion in the philosophy of the "world of work."

Early in life we hear such expressions as "Man was made to work." We are taught to think of relaxation as a reward for

DEAR ABBY

Easy Rules!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm stupid, but I would appreciate a simple rule for introducing people properly. Whenever I have to introduce people to each other, I get all flustered and make a mess of it. I've looked through etiquette books but it's so complicated I can't get it straight in my mind.

OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER.

DEAR ABBY: OLD ENOUGH: Don't feel stupid. Yours is a problem common to many who are old enough to know better. Just remember when introducing a lady to a gentleman to mention the lady's name first. ("Jane, may I present Bill?") In introducing someone to an elderly person, mention the elderly person's name first. ("Grandma Jones, this is Peggy, my classmate.") When introducing a very important person, use his name first. ("Bishop Pike, I'd like you to meet my father.")

DEAR ABBY: Our son married in a church wedding and all our friends and family sent very nice presents to the couple. Four years later they were divorced and now he is dating a girl who has never been married. If he should marry her, and she wants a church wedding, what do we do about wedding invitations? My husband and I feel that we should not do a repeat job for our family and friends. He thinks one wedding present per child is enough. What is the correct way of handling this?

STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: If your son marries a girl who has never been married and she wants a church wedding, include your friends and family as though it were your son's first, too. The matter of the gifts is up to the guests. It's a ticklish business, but why should the bride be penalized?

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about guys who kiss and tell?

DEAR SYLVIA: Consider yourself lucky. Most guys kiss and exaggerate.

DEAR ABBY: We are two nurses who wish to comment on a common problem dealing with children. Why don't parents tell their children the truth regarding visits to the doctor? When a child is brought in for a shot, if he is told in advance that it will "hurt a little," he isn't half so hard to handle as the child who is told "it won't hurt a bit." By knowing the truth the child is prepared. But when the child learns (as he surely will) that he has been lied to, he grows to hate doctors, nurses and to mistrust his parents.

Pansies Represent Courage to This Artist

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rose Leonard, was explaining why, of all flowers, she prefers to paint pansies.

It's because, to her, they represent courage.

"Long after all the other flowers have been frozen, pansies are still blooming. I've seen them blooming in the snow in my garden."

Miss Leonard — in private life Mrs. R. D. Davies of Edmonton, mother of a married son and stepmother to three young sons of her accountant-husband — was here for an exhibit of her paintings.

With pastel chalks she has for years caught the beauty of the velvet tones and delicate lines of pansies — most of which she has nurtured with gentle care in her own garden. Her works — they include oils as well as pastels; animals, scenics and city skylines as well as florals — have been reprinted thousands of times on greeting cards, hasty notes and full-sized reproductions for sale across Canada.

Her pansies soon may show up on United States markets, a result of interest shown by a New York firm whose representative visited here and requested several pastels.

Miss Leonard, born on a farm at St. Paul, Alta., and raised in Edmonton where she still makes her home, has been painting professionally for 20 years. "But I've been dabbling all my life."

When she began professionally, she was selling advertising in Winnipeg to make ends meet and painting when time permitted.

CRITICIZES ABSTRACTS

One of her exhibits was staged at Little Long Rapids in Northern Ontario, where most of those attending were personnel building Ontario Hydro's power plant, an audience which Miss Leonard said showed considerable art appreciation.

After the Second World War, she returned to Edmonton where 10 years ago she had her first one-man exhibit at the Museum of Arts. She's had several more since at various locations in Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver — where she had more than 100 works on display at a downtown department store — and elsewhere.

Miss Leonard is devoting more time now to oils and will have several in an exhibit early next year in Calgary. Following that she hopes to show in Winnipeg, Regina, Toronto and possibly Montreal as well as in the United States.

She already has done works of the Toronto and Montreal skylines for reproduction and plans a series depicting Canada from coast to coast, including skylines, scenics, florals, birds and animals.

Her portraits are limited to the faces of native Indian children who caught her fancy during a visit to the Calgary Stampede. And she has little love for abstracts, many of which she considers good only for cluttering basement storage.

"Someday I hope to do some abstract work. But it will be something the public will enjoy because it will be taken from nature. There are so many beautiful abstracts in nature."

Dinner Party For Staff

More than 90 staff members of Goodwill Enterprises were guests of the Quila Nichol Service League at a Christmas dinner in the War Amputations Hall recently. Mrs. W. C. Nichol, the honorary president, also attended.

Mrs. E. F. W. Cox, the president, welcomed guests; Mrs. E. T. Lea convened dinner arrangements and Mrs. Ethel Fryd was in charge of decorations.

Gladwell Clarke entertained on the Hammond organ; Owen Fowler was Ah Fu Yu the magician; Mrs. E. Rhee gave a Christmas story reading. Others taking part in the program were Marlene Alexander, Carol Young, Joan Stobbs and Lea Louie.

George Gray expressed thanks to the hostesses.

VOW Head Lauds Part Played By Canada's Women

MONTREAL (CP) — Mme. Therese Casgrain, national president of the Voice of Women, said today Canadian women can be proud of the part they have played in promoting an "international co-operation year."

She said in a year-end statement that an international women's conference held in Montreal in September was instrumental in getting the United Nations to adopt a resolution declaring 1963 a year of co-operation.

She asked all members of the Voice of Women to redouble efforts "to promote this spirit of understanding and agreement between peoples that alone can bring peace to the world."

Students Honor Miss Vaughan

Central Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Brown was scene of a seasonal party recently when the junior music students of Miss Margery Vaughan gathered in her honor.

Miss Vaughan, who leaves soon for England, was presented with a travelling bag, Games and the singing of carols rounded out the program.

Among those present were the Misses Heather Gibney, Fern Chapman, Joan Wall, Leola Gibson, Julie Goodwin, Debbie Wade, Jill Creech, Beverly Schultz, Brenda Murphy, Susan Kathrens, Amanda Allen, Susan Pike, Susan James and Donna Kerr.

Others were Roy Watson, Brian Wade, John Eckford, Bobby Webster, Timothy Webster, Reinhard Nienaber, Ronald and Allan Howatson, Grant Lett, Teddy Brown and Phillip Brown.

Of Personal Interest

On Mainland

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Graham travelled to Vancouver on Saturday to spend the holidays with Mrs. Graham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Croquet. They were accompanied by Mr. F. J. Croquet Jr. who is with the Royal Canadian Signal Corps at Kingston, Ont.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Yacht Club Festivities

Junior members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and their friends will gather in the clubhouse this evening for their annual Christmas dance. Dress will be semi-formal and guests will dance to the music of the Pharoahs orchestra.

Commodore R. Hamilton Smith, Mrs. Smith and other flag officers and their wives were in the receiving line when club members and their wives attended the annual Flag Officers' Collins Party in the clubhouse on Wednesday morning. A punch was served and 100 guests attended.

Holiday Week Parties

Miss Ruth Adams was hostess at a two-to-six party on Boxing Day afternoon at the Cadboro Bay Road home of her parents. Presiding at the tea table were Miss Adams' mother, Mrs. R. H. Adams, also Mrs. Vera Wade and Mrs. William Harrison. Assisting in serving were the Misses Lee and Lynne Hagglund.

Sizing of Children's Clothing Major Step in 1962

By PATRICIA RUSAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

During 1962 Canadian women crusaded for such causes as world peace and nuclear disarmament and even scored a few more firsts in their old battle for equality with men.

But their most significant victory was embodied in the February announcement that children's underwear bearing the Canada Standard Size label was available on the market.

This was later extended to other children's garments. Standardization of the sizes of children's clothing was the brainchild of the Canadian Association of Consumers, the 30,000-member women's organization, headed by Mrs. A. F. Plumptre of Ottawa, seeks to protect, educate and represent the buying public.

The CAC had struggled for 10 years to have its sizing system, based on body measurements and shapes, accepted by the government and by manufacturers.

One of the most vocal campaigns undertaken by Canadian women forged ahead in 1962.

Delegations from the Voice of Women presented pleas for peace to the Geneva disarmament talks and the United Nations.

Under leadership of Mrs. W. D. Tucker of Port Credit, Ont., co-founder of V.O.W., women from 17 countries met at a peace conference in Montreal and set up an international liaison committee to muster women of the world behind the peace movement. Mrs. Tucker is chairman of the committee.

Among women who earned recognition in fields once reserved for men was Mrs. Violet Cook of Toronto, the first woman ever elected a full brokerage partner in a Canadian securities business.

Quebec got its first woman cabinet minister in Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain and its first woman judge in Therese LeMay-Lavoie, and Toronto's Gertrude Mulcahy became the first of her sex ever elected to a fellowship in the Institute of Chartered Accountants' of Ontario.

The increasing role of women in banking was reflected in Toronto Dominion Bank's appointment of Holly Armstrong as its first female consultant.

FO Madeleine Thibault of the RCAF became the first woman flyer to receive a flight dispatcher's licence, and Mrs. Esther Kaffer, 29, of Vancouver, was the first woman to climb British Columbia's highest mountain, 13,260-foot Mt. Waddington.

Other firsts included the appointment of a woman coroner in Toronto, and the election of an all-woman council on the Metagami Indian Reserve near Chapleau, Ont.

Myrtle Bamford became warden of Ontario's Haliburton County at 23, the youngest woman ever to hold such a post. She presides over an all-male council of 12 reeves and deputy reeves.

In the political field four of five members of the last Parliament were re-elected June 18. A newcomer was Mrs. Isabel Hardie who succeeded her late husband Mervyn Hardie, MP for Mackenzie River.

Mrs. Ethel Wilson of Edmonton became minister without portfolio in Alberta.

In letters Mrs. Sheila Burnford of Port Arthur, Ont., won the Canadian Library Association's medal for the best children's book in English, The Incredible Journey, and Lillian Smith of Toronto, formerly of Hamilton and London, Ont., was the first Canadian, first woman and first children's librarian to receive the American Textbook Publishers' Clearance Day award.

DESIGNS STAMPS
Mrs. Helen Bacon of Toronto had two of her stamp designs used during the year — one marking Victoria's centennial and the other education year.

Eleanor Milne of Wakefield, Que., was appointed Canada's official sculptor, taking on the job of creating carvings and statues commissioned for federal buildings.

Iona Reed, 22, of Sudbury, Ont., won the world championship at the accordion competitions in Prague.

Happy Combination
Who's for bread and cheese? This popular food combination has more virtues than you realize. For, in addition to their flavorful eating goodness, these foods are an ideal team nutritionwise. Cheese contains high quality animal protein, essential calcium, vitamin A and riboflavin (B2). When paired with enriched white bread, the nutrition score includes extra high quality cereal protein, iron, more calcium, more riboflavin and two other important B vitamins, thiamine and niacin. And that's not all! There's lots of readily available food energy in a combination of bread and cheese no matter how you eat it... A cheese sandwich, a cheese and bread crumb casserole, or cheese and toast for breakfast. Whatever your choice... it's a happy and a nutritious one!

TODAY'S RECIPE

TURKEY MAKE-OVER

Three tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 pinch each crumbled basil and rosemary, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh or 1 teaspoon dried parsley, 2 tablespoons diced green pepper, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1/2 cup drained canned or cooked shrimp, 1 1/2 cups cubed turkey. Cream together butter, flour, paprika, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, basil and rosemary in top of double boiler over low heat. When thoroughly mixed and smooth, gradually add the milk. Heat to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Continue cooking and stirring until thickened. Place pan over boiling water and add parsley, green pepper, celery, drained shrimps and turkey. If shrimps are small they may be left whole, but if large cut in thirds or quarters. Stir gently to combine ingredients. Cover pan and continue to cook until thoroughly heated through. If sauce should become too thick, add a little additional milk. Serve on patty shells, tea biscuits or toast or make a casserole with noodles. Yields five to six servings.

Venus Days Longer Mariner II Indicates

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—First reports back from Mariner II's historic fly-by-Venus indicate that the cloud-shrouded planet may have longer days and nights than her sister planet, earth.

Scientists reported Wednesday to a conference of the American Association for the Advancement of Science on the only data analyzed so far from the tape-recorded reports made when Mariner rushed by within 21,600 miles of Venus Dec. 14.

That data indicates that Venus has little or no magnetic field.

This could be because of a low rotation. Earth turns on its axis every 24 hours, giving us our 24-hour day. But Venus—about the same size as earth—may take considerably longer.

The weaker magnetic field may also indicate that Venus has no radiation belts, nor any southern or northern lights such as those seen on earth.

Earth's magnetic field traps high energy atomic particles streaming through space and more-or less confines them in belts of radiation around the earth.

'AN EVIL CUSTOM'

China Reds Reject Early Marriage Idea

PEKING (Reuters)—Chinese Communist authorities have rejected suggestions that the legal age of marriage—20 for men and 18 for girls—should be changed.

At the same time, they have made it clear their campaign against early marriages will continue.

The subject has been debated at length in the letter columns of the Peking newspaper Workers' Daily.

Under the over-all heading, Is It Good to Marry Early? the newspaper has published more than 400 letters for and against the Chinese government's policy.

The debate started when a Peking University professor wrote a letter to the official youth newspaper saying men should not get married until they are 30 and girls not until they are 25.

The professor also advocated family planning, saying that two or, in special cases, three, children are the ideal for any couple—a statement which was controversial, to say the least, in a country where large families are a tradition.

PUBLIC ARTICLES

Soon afterward newspapers began publishing, in a way which led many foreign observers to believe that a full-scale birth-control campaign was about to be launched, frank articles by medical experts on various contraception methods.

But, although representing some switch from the policy of the last four years, the trend has never reached anything like the vigor of the country-wide birth control campaign which lasted throughout 1957 but then was suddenly dropped.

Now, the articles on contraception have again disappeared.

The debate was summed up in an article by Chou Hsin-min, vice-director of the legal department of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, who wrote that early marriages had been prevalent in China for thousands of years, and he added: "An evil custom like this can hardly be altered in a short time."

What is necessary, he declared, is "a prolonged period of propaganda and education."

Playwright Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Lawrence Langner, 72, founder and director of the Theatre Guild, a producer and playwright and one of the leading patent lawyers in the world, died Wednesday.

Scientists Gaining On 'Common Cold'

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists report definite progress in the continuing struggle against the "most wanted" villains among the common cold viruses.

For one thing, the first experimental vaccine against one of the chief outlaws is undergoing initial trials in humans. Another vaccine is slated for trials in a few weeks.

In reporting the first large-scale research attack ever mounted by the U.S. government against humanity's most prevalent misery, scientists caution against expectations of early breakthrough.

It's a big field. Common colds account for 1,000,000,000 illnesses and a $3,000,000,000 economic loss each year in the United States alone.

Vaccine hunters at the National Institutes of Health, focal point of a multi-million-dollar effort launched this year, say it is conceivable that in five years or so vaccines may be available against the most serious of colds, the kinds that most often strike children.

But they underline the word "may."

"I believe that an estimate of about five years seems reasonable," says Dr. Justin M. Andrews, chief of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

MANY FACTORS
"We have a long way yet to go," says Dr. Robert J. Huebner, chief of the institute's laboratory of infectious diseases.

But they say there is reason for more optimism due to the stepped-up pace of the research effort, as in the new vaccine development program authorized by Congress last year.

Under this program, on which about $1,000,000 is being spent in the first year alone, contracts already have been awarded to two commercial firms to develop prototype vaccines and to two hospitals to test them.

But the quest for a vaccine effective against many cold viruses is complicated by these factors:

1. Since 1953, approximately 100 different viruses have been identified which may play some role in the common cold.

2. Scientists believe researchers have accounted for about 50 per cent of the viruses that cause serious respiratory illness as well as some of the minor colds in children. But they've identified less than 10 per cent of those that might be especially prevalent in adults.

With certain exceptions, colds in adults up to 65, though they can make one miserable, are seldom severe enough to require hospital treatment.

Initial efforts in vaccine development are aimed at finding vaccines against four types of microbe responsible for severe illnesses in children.

A new $2,000,000 gravel highway between Grand Rapids and Gypsumville, Man., was built at the rate of one mile a day through muskeg and wilderness.

NEW OPERATION NEEDED

Boy's Rejoined Arm Shows Good Progress

BOSTON (AP)—Red-haired, freckle-faced Everett Knowles Jr., calmly awaits a new operation in which his right arm and medical history — is at stake.

The 13-year-old boy has been told by Dr. Ronald Malt of Massachusetts General Hospital that he must undergo the surgeon's knife again, possibly early in January.

Knowles already has undergone a series of history-making operations in which his completely severed right arm was reconnected to his body.

"Doctors said the progress is very good," the boy's father said. "He can move his arm now."

Everett may become the first person in medical history ever to have a completely severed limb reconnected, with life, feel and usefulness. His right arm was cut off in a train-yard accident.

Dr. Malt said the operation he contemplates deals with the nerve fibres, which already have been connected at the point the arm was severed, about two inches below the amput.

He refused to discuss the exact nature of the operation. Earlier Dr. Malt said that unless the nerve system is successfully joined, doctors may be forced to amputate the arm as useless.

The nerves in the arm were connected last Sept. 11—after the bone, the arteries and

DOORBELL CAUSES BLAST

ROTTERDAM (Reuters)—Christians called pressed the electric doorbell of a house here and the house exploded, destroying two others next door. Under the rubble of the house were found the bodies of an old couple, dead from asphyxiation by coal gas which had filled their home. The gas exploded from the doorbell's electricity.

SEASON'S BEST WISHES TO EVERYONE FROM THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

QUEEN ADMIRES GROWING FAMILY

LONDON (Reuters) — Following is the text of the Queen's annual Christmas broadcast.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

There is something wonderful in the way these old familiar warm-hearted words of the traditional Christmas message never seem to grow stale. Surely it is because the farly festival is like a firm landmark in the stormy seas of modern life.

Year by year, our families change and grow up. So does our Commonwealth family. This year, Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago and Uganda have joined the circle as full members and we wish them all good fortune.

VISIT AUSTRALIA

My husband and I are greatly looking forward to re-visiting New Zealand and Australia in the new year. We shall meet many old friends and make new ones and we shall be very interested to see some of the many new developments which have taken place since I was last there nine years ago.

In spite of all the changes of the modern world and the many stresses and strains involved, the feeling of a special relationship between the ordinary people of the older Commonwealth countries will never be weakened. This feeling is rapidly spreading throughout the newer members and in its turn will help us to realize the ideal of human brotherhood.

FORCE FOR GOOD

In the ideal of the Commonwealth we have been entrusted with something very special. We have in our hands a most potent force for good, and one of the true unifying bonds in this torn world. Let us keep faith with the ideal we know to be right and be ambitious for the good of all men.

Mankind continues to achieve wonders in technical and space research but in the Western world perhaps the launching of Telstar has captured the imagination most vividly. This tiny satellite has become the invisible focus of a million eyes.

EXCITING PROSPECT

Telstar, and her sister satellites as they arise, can now show the world to the world just as it is in its daily life. What a wonderfully exciting prospect and perhaps it will make us stop and think about what sort of picture we are presenting to each other.

Wise men since the beginning of time have studied the skies. Whatever our faith, we can all follow a star—indeed we must follow one if the immensity of the future opening before us is not to dazzle our eyes and dissipate our sense of direction.

WHICH STAR?

Some people are uncertain which star to follow, or if any star is worth following at all. What is it all for, they ask, if you can bounce a telephone conversation, or a television picture through the skies and across the world, yet still find lonely people living in the same street?

Following a star has many meanings: It can mean the religious man's approach to God or the hopes of parents for their children, or the ambition of young men and women, or the devotion of old countries like ours to well-tried ideals of toleration and justice, with no distinction of race or creed.

The wise men of old followed a star: Modern man has built one. But unless the message of this new star is the same as theirs our wisdom will count for nothing. Now we can all say the world is my neighbor and it is only in serving one another that we can reach for the stars. God bless you all.

... $4 MILLION

Alexandra Solarium, Red Cross Society, and Goodwill Enterprises.

Mr. Abbott said he could not hazard a guess as to what the annual income would be because the estate likely would be switched from stocks to bonds.

But other sources feel that a minimum revenue of $150,000 might be realized each of the five years.

At the end of the five-year period, the estate would be broken up and the residue handed over to Victoria College and the city of Victoria.

Favored Cathedral Hill Plan

Mr. McPherson attached no strings to his bequests but it was understood he privately expressed a wish to Mayor R. B. Wilson that the city's share be used to develop the Cathedral Hill precinct and plaza.

In all—taking the initial value of the estate, the five-year revenue payments to charity, the residual bequests and the real estate endowment to the college—the will is a $5,000,000-plus gift to the poor, the handicapped, the students and the citizens of Victoria.

"It truly fulfills Mr. McPherson's enduring purpose—to build up a valuable estate for the community of Victoria," a friend said.

Throughout his life, Mr. McPherson added to that purpose by frequent but quiet assistance to all sorts of charities and community organizations.

Among these, for instance, were the donation of two lots at Courtney and Quadra for the YM-YWCA building site several years ago; perennially large individual contributions to the Community Chest; no numerous smaller assists to other groups.

Perhaps best typifying his love for Victoria was an annual contribution as a sponsor of the Victoria Symphony Society even though he was not a great music lover.

"It's good for Victoria, so I must support it," was the reason he gave.

Scottish-born, Mr. McPherson came to Canada with his family in 1883.

After schooling in New Westminster, he learned the potter's trade in California, then settled in Nelson where he took a job as a store clerk.

In 1905 he came to Victoria, entered the real estate business and became one of the city's most ardent admirers as his will revealed in concrete terms.

Winter Work Layoffs Customary

Winter work layoffs in Oak Bay and Saanich are customary "between jobs" stops that coincide with the year's end.

Oak Bay engineer Geoffrey White said today that work is geared to the budget, and therefore projects scheduled for the new year will not begin until about mid-January.

Some 15 winter works employees—who augment regular works personnel—are off over the holiday period.

Mr. White said the figure would have been much higher had it not been for the fact that a number of permanent staff are taking part of their annual vacation now, and extra staff are replacing them.

In Saanich about 40 winter works staff were laid off in the few days before Christmas, drawing complaint from some that it was an unfair Christmas practice, especially after they were promised six months of work by the employment service.

Saanich hires as many men as possible for the work to be done, instead of fewer men over a longer period, an official pointed out.

But budget considerations also are important at year's end, he said.

VANCOUVER CHILDREN SUFFOCATE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two children suffocated in their rooming house bedroom today when a kerosene can filled with burning coal used up all the oxygen in the air.

Police said the can was placed in the bedroom of Benny, 14, and Ming, 12, children of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Limm, for warmth during the night.

The Limms discovered the deaths when a third child, Ying, 11, stumbled into their room and complained of feeling ill. Ying was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

The temperature in Vancouver overnight dropped to 32 degrees.

Wild Bus Ride to Freedom Amid Hail of Red Bullets

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — For six months Hans Weidner, a crippled war veteran, worked deep in Communist East Germany to armor and outfit an old bus for a run to the freedom of West Berlin.

Wednesday he made it spectacularly, despite the machine-gun fire of East German border guards.

Weidner led a party of eight refugees that crashed the bus through three barriers on the main road to West Berlin, and emerged from the shooting unscathed.

A half-dozen bullets scarred the bus.

Weidner, who walks painfully with the aid of two crutches, brought along his wife and two children, a 13-year-old daughter and a son, 10.

With them were his driver, Jurgen Wagner, 22, and Wagner's wife and two children one 18 months old.

"We didn't say anything to the children until the last minute," Weidner said in an interview. "They thought we were going to visit relatives in East Germany for Christmas."

Weidner had been planning the escape since mid-summer in the little town of Neugersdorf, at the southeastern corner of East Germany.

"I had a garage and this one bus," he explained. "It was built in 1941. Anything newer than that goes to the state."

The preparations were complicated and thorough. Weidner and Wagner worked together to obtain the steel plates, fit them to the side of the bus and to make eye-slits in the plates to go over the windshield.

They also built steel guards to protect the double tires of the 10-ton, 40-seat bus. They attached a snow plow to clear the heavy nails they expected to find at the crossing-point.

Christmas Eve they loaded up with about three tons of personal belongings, added a ton of coal and potatoes as ballast and started. Half way to Berlin, they were halted by bitter weather that knocked out the cooling system.

Early Wednesday morning they started off again. Then a tire blew. That took more time for repair.

About 5:30 a.m. the bus approached the first East German control point at 15 miles an hour, as East German regulations provide. Then Wagner gunned the engine and burst through.

It was a moment before the police saw what was happening and began to shoot.

The headlights were out by the time the bus reached the second barrier, but Weidner flashed an auxiliary spotlight to blind the guards.

At the third and last barrier, part of the road was torn up and apparently Wagner didn't notice it.

"I grabbed the steering wheel with both hands and kept us out of the hole," Weidner said, "while Wagner stepped on the gas and we went through."

Youngsters Fall to Death From Cliff

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Two girls and a boy slipped off an ice-slick cliff near the top of Waterfall Canyon and fell 500 feet to their deaths Wednesday.

The victims were Shauna Southwick, 9, Mark Way, 9, and Bonnie Ross, 8, all of Ogden.

Police officers found the bodies about 10 p.m. at the base of the cliff. The boy and Bonnie Ross were dead. Shauna Southwick was alive but died en route to hospital.

Officers estimated the youngsters "hiked about 3½ miles from their homes to the top of the canyon."

CPR Denies Loggers Hit By Own Firm

The CPR today denied that its logging company has forced two Island firms out of business.

Moore-Whittington subsidiary Elder Timber Co. and A. G. Manzer and Sons Ltd. last week said they were pulling out of the Sooke area because they couldn't meet "high prices demanded by the CPR for timber on its E and N lands."

Pacific Logging, a CPR subsidiary, is now cutting E and N timber.

William M. Sloan, spokesman for Pacific, said the company had made "a genuine effort" to deal with Moore-Whittington and had offered prices lower than the current Island market rate.

He said the CPR has done no business with the Manzer firm for seven years. (A spokesman last week said the company was quitting because it could not get any more timber.)

Mr. Sloan said Pacific had made jobs for 35 loggers since it started operations in Sooke in August.

Victoria Man Hurt In Malahat Crash

DUNCAN—A Victoria man, Mel Massey, was reported in "fairly good" condition today following an accident on the Malahat Wednesday at 7:15 p.m.

Mr. Massey, suffering head cuts was taken to hospital by Duncan Ambulance.

RCMP said Mr. Massey's car collided with a car driven by F. D. Hartman of Nanaimo. Mrs. Massey and her two children were taken to stay with relatives at Maple Bay. Local police estimated damage at $900.

No one was injured when a vehicle operated by Ellen Herbert skidded on the slippery road while travelling from Government Street to Jubilee Street, and crashed into two parked cars.

The parked cars were owned by Wilfred Johny of Westholme, and Wallace Louis Antoine, of Duncan. Estimated damage was $200. The accident occurred Christmas Day.

A city maintenance truck and a car collided by the parking lot at the intersection of Government and Station Streets Monday at 12:35 p.m. Driver of the car was Kenneth G. Robertson, Duncan, and the truck driver was Norman A. Carter, also of Duncan.

Local RCMP said the car received about $350 damage, and the truck about $10 damage. No one was injured.

250 Needy Families Given Food Hampers

DUNCAN — More than 250 was Garner's Building Supplies, one of 28 entrants in before the holidays to needy families in the Cowichan Valley were Jim's BA Service and lay under the auspices of the Christmas-Cheer Fund.

The system replaced last year's plan of giving vouchers, and reflected the spirit of Christmas more sincerely, the committee felt.

Spokesman Jimmy Taylor said a gift was given to each guest in the district's four rest homes, an additional project of the committee.

Members of the leader section of the junior branch, Victoria Natural History Society, will go to Duncan Saturday to assist the newly formed junior section of the Cowichan Valley Natural History Society on a field and collecting trip.

GANGES — The New Year will be ushered in here at special services in Salt Spring Island churches.

Guest speaker at Ganges United Church Dec. 30 at 11 a.m. will be Rev. R. Goodall, pastor of Sixth Avenue United Church, New Westminster.

New Year's Eve service will be held in St. Mark's Anglican Church at 11:30 p.m.

Holy Mass will be celebrated New Year's Day at 10:45 a.m. at Our Lady of Grace Roman Catholic Church.

DUNCAN — Ninety residents entered the Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest, in which trophies and prizes will be presented early in January.

CANADA MUST STUDY POSITION

Big Year in Trade Talks

By ALAN DONNELLY
OTTAWA (CP) — Canada moved closer in 1962 to what may be a critical turning point in its history as a trading nation.

Britain's continued negotiations to join the European Common Market and the adoption by the United States of a freer trade policy were highlights of international trade developments during the year.

But their impact on Canada won't be known until 1964—perhaps even later.

British membership in the six-nation Common Market—a probability but still not a certainty—now appears delayed until the start of 1964, assuming Britain can surmount formidable problems remaining in its Brussels negotiations with the Common Market.

VITAL TALKS

That year will also see the anticipated start of vital international negotiations on the reduction of tariffs and other barriers to trade. Sparking this move is President Kennedy's new trade legislation with its promise of big reductions in the tariff wall around the rich American market.

British entry to Europe would eventually end Canada's preferred trade position in a $200,000,000-a-year export market. The so-called "Kennedy round" of trade negotiations would almost certainly require Canada to reduce its own tariffs in order to benefit from the international move to freer trade.

With these momentous changes in prospect, 1963 for Canada will be a year of preparation.

A senior government official described it as "a year of intensive study of the whole Canadian economy to prepare Canada's position for the changes ahead."

ARCTIC AIR FIGHTING TO GIVE CITY SNOW

A mass of Arctic air is putting up a valiant struggle to bring a touch of winter to the Victoria area.

The official forecast calls for a resumption of colder temperatures Friday and Saturday, mostly cloudy with showers—some of them mixed with snow.

Noon temperature at Gonzales was 40, low expected tonight is in the 35 to 38 range.

T. S. McPHERSON
"amazing benefactions"

$4 Million For the Good Of Community

An amazing series of benefactions to Victoria and various community organizations was revealed in the will of Thomas Shanks McPherson when it was filed for probate today.

Value of the estate was estimated at a net of approximately $4,000,000 but Mr. McPherson's will ensures that its ultimate value with accrued interest will substantially exceed this figure.

And virtually all of it will benefit every citizen of Victoria and some segments of the community several times over.

Aside from modest bequests to a relative and an ailing friend, Mr. McPherson left his fortune to the city of Victoria, Victoria College, the Salvation Army, YM-YWCA, Christ Church Cathedral, and made provision for gifts to 11 charities for the next five years.

Mr. McPherson, who died Dec. 3 at the age of 89, was the epitome of the extremely shy self-made businessman who helped charities without fanfare all his life and even on his death.

He loved Victoria with a dedicated passion which the city probably never will forget.

Under the terms of his will, the city stands to benefit by almost $1,000,000 in five years' time—by far the largest legacy it has ever received from a citizen.

The will was filed for probate by Douglas Abbott, manager of The Canada Trust Company which is executor and trustee.

It calls for almost immediate disbursement of $700,000 in bequests to:

- Christ Church Cathedral, $50,000 in the hope it will be used for completing the chancel;
- University Building Fund for Victoria College, $250,000;
- Salvation Army, $200,000 to be used in the province;
- Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association, $200,000 for the proposed joint building in Victoria.

Two Small Lifetime Legacies

The $3,300,000 remainder of the estate—mostly in stocks at the moment but also including the part ownership of the seven-story Central Building office block, the old Pantages Theatre and some adjoining property—will be tied up for five years.

During that period, the income from the estate will be distributed in annual gifts to:

Ski Tow Breakdown Traps 56

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fifty-six young persons were trapped—some for as much as three hours—in freezing temperatures Wednesday night when a chairlift on Hollyburn Mountain in neighboring West Vancouver broke down.

Police said today they are holding four youths who are believed to have caused the accident by swinging chairs as they went around the turning mechanism at the bottom of the lift.

The young persons who were attending a dance at a ski lodge on the mountain, suffered no severe injuries.

One hundred and five others who were stranded at the top of the lift were guided down the snow-covered mountain by police.

Some of the trapped swayed in chairs 200 feet above the ground. Firemen used 40-foot aluminum ladders and ropes to rescue them.

Ropes were looped over the chairlift at the high edge of a 200-foot gully. They were then inched down to the stranded riders and a ladder sent over to them. They crawled along the ladders to the edge of the gully.

Police said the cable was slipped out of the pulley by youths swinging the chairs.

TOWER PULLED DOWN

The sagging cable, kept in motion by an engine at the top of the lift, dragged a chair into the cross beams of a tower, pulling down the heavy structure.

Ray Carlaw, 22, who was thrown 20 feet to the ground from the entangled chair suffered cuts and bruises.

The passengers had been attending a dance of the Jewish Community Centre of Vancouver. The chairlift was turned on to take them down the mountain to a chartered buses.

Forest ranger Ted Russell said chairlift operator Mike Gazda was riding the first chair down.

"Gazda just arrived at the bottom when he saw four kids swinging the chairs as they went around the pulley."

'Suddenly Everyone's An Invader's Cousin'

HAVANA (AP)—Crowds of Cubans today thronged the homes of the Cuban invaders' families committee anxious for clearances that would allow them to travel to the United States.

They had heard reports that Premier Fidel Castro would authorize the departure of another 1,000 relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders.

Wednesday 921 men, women and children left aboard the American freighter African Pilot.

RELATIVES ARRIVE

'Outside Cuba Anything Looks Like Heaven'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The bus from Port Everglades, where their ship docked,

The first woman to enter the hall, Mrs. Nereida Rodriguez Estrada, 23, became incoherent when she was unable to locate her husband at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Delgado tearfully embraced their son, Roman, 28, when they saw him for the first time in eight months.

"It is a miracle that we are here," cried Mrs. Delgado, 55. "Anything outside of Cuba looks like heaven," her husband agreed.

Asked what was the most serious of shortages of living essentials in Cuba, Delgado replied: "The most grievous is the shortage of shame."

HOPE FOR MORE

As the relatives arrived, hopes were high that Premier Castro would allow at least another 1,000 relatives to leave, joining the massive exodus that has brought 200,000 persons to the United States.

The African Pilot brought mothers, fathers, wives and other relatives of the prisoners. Also aboard was Guillermo Ara

MANNED INTER-PLANETARY STATIONS

Soviet Spacemen Look at Future

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet

spacecraft Gherman Titov believes a big, inhabited interplanetary station must be placed in orbit to serve as a starting base for space ships going to the moon, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Wednesday.

Maj. Titov, interviewed with Russia's other three spacemen, said he was the first Russian spaceman to ask for a trip to the moon.

Maj. Yuri Gagarin, the world's first spaceman, said that for flights to Mars and Venus, heavy spaceships would be needed, probably carrying engineers, communications staff and scientists.

Such a flight would last several years, he said and "we have reckoned that a smoker would have to take about 1,000 packets of cigarettes with him."

Gagarin thought it would be possible to create a reproduction cycle to produce everything needed to sustain human life aboard the spaceship.

Maj. Andrian Nikolayev suggested that the moon would in future become a huge, well-equipped launching pad, because it was easier to send interstellar ships to Mars and Venus from there than from earth.

Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich said he "wanted, insisted and demanded" that space should remain clean, and that "no shot should be fired there."

Yes, Victoria, there is a Santa Claus. . . .

With all them wonderful reunions in Miami, bet Fidel wishes he'd hev come himself.

A white Christmas is a'right, long's it don't hev a red cross on it.

Europe Gripped By Cold

LONDON (CP)—Two British trains smashed together in a blizzard Wednesday night, killing at least 18 persons, and many other deaths were reported from Europe as bitter Arctic winds pushed winter southward across the continent.

A blizzard that dropped up to a foot of snow in England was blowing when the Glasgow-to-London Scot Express smashed into the rear of a local train stopped at Cottenham Junction four miles outside the Midlands industrial city of Crewe.

The dead—many of them still unidentified—all were in one car of the Liverpool-to-Birmingham local. Six were children. Thirty-three persons were injured, many critically.

The local train's two end cars, one of them a baggage car, were smashed into a mass of twisted metal.

Firemen worked under automobile headlights to cut through the twisted steel with acetylene torches.

It was Britain's worst train wreck since 1957, when 90 persons were killed in the collision of two rush-hour commuter trains between London and Lewisham.

Rescue squads worked by headlamps laying the dead out at a nearby farm and carrying the injured to a field to await ambulances.

"Some of the injured are so seriously hurt that it is doubtful whether they will survive," said a fire-department spokesman.

POWER LINES FALL

A dozen doctors and 60 firemen worked frantically to rescue the trapped and injured but were severely hampered by fallen power lines brought down by the crash.

Europe's piercing weather extended from the far north to the Mediterranean and eastward to Siberia.

Two people were frozen to death in northern Portugal. It snowed in northern and central Spain. Italy was wrapped in snow from the Alps to Sicily. In Calabria, in the toe of Italy, four persons died when their car skidded and hit a tree in a snowstorm.

In the Italian Alpine town of Domodossola an avalanche swept two smugglers to their deaths.

In the Italian Alps, temperatures plunged to 31 degrees below zero at Trappelle, highest inhabited area in Europe. Italian newspapers reported the coldest Christmas of the century.

SNOW HITS PARIS

Snowplows churned in Copenhagen, Denmark, where temperatures hovered around freezing.

Paris, dusted with snow, awoke to freezing weather and there was a rush on stores for ladies' boots.

Germany was mostly free of fresh snow, but it was cold—14 to 17 degrees. The Dutch skated on their frozen canals, and in Oslo, Norway, the day was clear and freezing.

But Hammerfest, Norway, which is farther north than Nome, Alaska, was having "mild" weather. It was 32 degrees above zero and most of the snow had been washed away by mild rain.

The snowline in Britain crept steadily south from Scotland, and London's spires and rooftops bore an icing of white. Hill roads in many parts of Britain were impassable. At London Airport many planes were grounded.

Heavy rains collapsed at least 100 houses in Algiers, across the bay from Gibraltar, and caused other destruction in the area. A woman and the baby to whom she had just given birth were rescued from a bed floating in a street in southern Spain.

DIEFENBAKER

Jake Gave Jack To John

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John (Jake the Barber) Factor and his wife contributed $22,000 to the Kennedy presidential campaign and the Democratic National Committee in 1960 and 1961, congressional records showed today.

Factor was given a Christmas pardon last weekend by President Kennedy from a 1943 fraud conviction. The action will quash current deportation proceedings against him.

Factor contributed $10,000 to two Democratic campaign groups in 1960 and $2,000 to the National Committee last year, according to reports filed with the U.S. House of Representatives. His wife, Rella, contributed $10,000 in 1960.

(In Palm Beach, Fla., where President Kennedy is holidaying, press secretary, Pierre Salinger said of the Factor campaign contribution: "I don't know anything about it.")

BROKE SECRECY

Dief's Gaffe Annoys Allies

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker divulged the amount of a Western military aid program for India before the United States and Britain could officially inform India and Pakistan, diplomatic sources reported today.

Mr. Diefenbaker disclosed at Nassau after a luncheon meeting with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the U.S., Britain and Canada and some other Commonwealth countries plan to supply India with $120,000,000 worth of military equipment to bolster its against Communist Chinese aggression.

Pakistan had already expressed alarm over Western military assistance to India, fearing India might use it in its long-standing dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Pakistan has contended that large-scale military aid to India might make matters worse instead of better in the Asian sub-continent.

Diplomatic sources said Mr. Diefenbaker revealed the amount of the program before Britain and the U.S. could inform India or reassure Pakistan that the Western weapons would be used only by India in its conflict with China.

REPORTED UPSET

Consequently, the U.S. and Britain were reported upset by Mr. Diefenbaker's disclosure.

Mr. Diefenbaker a few weeks ago offered Canada's diplomatic aid to India and Pakistan to try to settle the Kashmir dispute.

The United Kingdom high commissioner's office and the U.S. embassy here had no comment on the matter. They said they are not directly concerned with transportation facilities.

Centennial Flashback . . .

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

DECEMBER 27

Charlie, a Cherahena Indian, was fined 12 shillings in police court today for breaking a window on the property of Mr. Oliver. Benjamin Martin was fined 10 pounds on a charge of vagrancy and was told to be on good behavior for the next three months or serve a 10-day prison term.

The frigate Bird arrived from London today with 48 passengers and 570 tons of goods consigned to Dickson, Campbell and Company. She made the passage in 136 days which includes being detained for 26 days off Cape Horn due to rough weather.

The owners of the steamer Thames and the American ship Sheet Anchor have filed a suit against the owners of the Rosedale for $6,000 for salvage operations completed one week ago when the Rosedale ran aground in Ross Bay.

A panther killed one pig and several sheep belonging to farmers in the Mount Tolmie area last night, it was learned today. A party of farmers were beating the bushes this morning in the "Old Park" vicinity in the hope of finding him.

The Toronto stock market was lower Wednesday in light trading.
On index, industrials slipped .62 at 569.96 as golds fell .57 to 85.44. Base metals rose 1.46 to 189.07, while western oils declined 1.32 at 113.37.
Final volume was 2,423,000 shares compared with the 2,052,000 shares traded last Friday.
In late day trading Walker-Goodham, Aluminum, Calgary Power and Atlas Steel all dropped .57.

Interprovincial Pipe Line fell .44. Massey-Ferguson and Bell Telephone both .44 and TransCanada Pipe Lines .44.
Among base metals, International Nickel and Hudson Bay Mining both gained .44, while Falconbridge dropped .44.
Western oils saw Calgary and Edmonton fall .44 and Pacific Petroleum .44. Home B gained .44.
NEW YORK UP
Wall Street showed a fairly good gain Wednesday with some stocks up sharply. Trading was moderate.
Gains of fractions to more than a point were scattered throughout the list.
Du Pont rose more than 2, as did Polaroid. Amerasia, Eastman Kodak, Fairchild Camera, Woolworth, and Texas Instruments gained more than a point apiece.
Except for Studebaker, which traded about unchanged, all the auto stocks gained fractions.

Canadian Pacific rose 1/4 among Canadian issues while McIntyre Porcupine, Aluminum Ltd., and Hudson Bay Mining each gained 1/4. Walker-Goodham dropped 1/4.
Prices on the American exchange were irregular, with a slight Canadian Marconi, while Scurry Rainbow-Oil and Shawinigan each fell 1/4.
Gains approaching a point were scored by Standard Oil (New Jersey), Radio Corp., and Chrysler.

Canada Bank Closes Out Dollar Swap

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Bank of Canada has closed out the currency exchange arrangements made last June as part of the government's program to meet a national financial emergency, it was announced today.

A statement by the central bank said $75 million in United States currency was exchanged with federal reserve bank of New York Wednesday to completely reverse the $250 million swap arranged with the U.S. institution six months ago.

At the same time, another $25 million was exchanged with the Bank of England to close out the $100 million swap negotiated with the British central bank.

The Bank of Canada said the U.S. exchange was placed "on a standby basis," while the British swap was terminated.

The exchange arrangements, under which the Canadian bank swapped Canadian dollars for U.S. funds to bolster its exchange holdings, were worked out to strengthen the country's foreign exchange fund after a steady drain reached crisis proportions by mid-June. Since then, the run of the Canadian dollar has ceased, the exchange has been built up by more than $1 billion, and Canada has been able to reverse both the U.S. and British exchanges.

France Drops 'New Franc' As of Jan. 1

PARIS (AP)—As of New Year's Day, the French monetary unit will again be the franc instead of the new franc.

The French government has adopted a decree re-establishing the franc as the official name and the centime as a division of the franc.

New francs and coins to be issued will include 10 and 50 franc bills, and five and 20 centime coins. As before, there will be 100 centimes to the franc.

The franc, like the new franc, will be worth about 21 cents.

In the currency reform about four years ago, the franc was replaced by the "new franc" at the ratio of 100 to one, thus dropping the last two zeros on bills in circulation.

STEADY CLIMB IN INDEX—Canada's cost-of-living index soared to a post-war record high of 131.9 in November, capping a steady climb accelerated in 1962 by dollar devaluation. Graph traces monthly movement of the index from January, 1958. (CP Newsmap.)

BANK OF MONTREAL SAYS:

Little Evidence of Major Turndown

By GREY MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There is little evidence of a major downturn in the Canadian economy in 1963, says the Bank of Montreal.

The bank, in its monthly Business Review, says the economy during 1962 advanced almost without pause and that in spite of some weak spots it was a good year for most people and most industries.

Noting that the year started out in an encouraging atmosphere, the bank says that most business indicators were pointing upwards and the external economic environment seemed generally favorable.

But there was also evidence of some slowing down in the flow of long-term capital investment into Canada, as well as falls in exchange reserves and the exchange rate.

The rapid succession in developments which led to the fixing of a par value for the Canadian dollar at a lower rate continued heavy losses of exchange reserves and speculative pressure against the dollar culminated in an exchange crisis which required corrective measures, the bank said.

"Nevertheless, the economic advance in Canada continued without pause... and industrial production and retail sales rose to record levels, unemployment was substantially reduced and agricultural output exceeded earlier expectations."

"The stance of the Canadian

Reduced Rate Seen for '63 Expansion

TORONTO (CP)—The coming year should be one of continuing economic and industrial expansion at a somewhat reduced rate, Carl A. Pollock, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, says in a year-end statement.

Mr. Pollock, chairman and president of Dominion Electronics Industries Ltd., Kitchener, Ont., describes Canada as in the enviable position of ending one good year and starting another with the relevant indicators pointing to further expansion.

"Despite the worry generated earlier in the year by our balance-of-payments position, the Canadian economy not only recovered remarkably but actually finished 1962 with new employment, production, sales and export records chalked up in its business history book."

"Some soft spots across the country will require attention, but I think manufacturing can do well again in the year ahead, although possibly the scale will be somewhat moderated."

LARGER SHARE

"Devaluation, plus the 1962 budget's modest tax incentives to increased sales, and rising support for the 'Buy, Make and Sell Canadian' program, will help Canadian industrialists capture a larger share of both domestic and export markets."

The actual size of the share, however, will depend on the range and extent of the further incentives and tax reforms which we hope will be included in the upcoming budget.

"Employment prospects look good compared with two or three years ago and the pronounced improvement seen in 1962 should be well maintained, particularly if the motor vehicle and iron and steel industries retain their current strength."

"The capital investment outlook, too, appears favorable at this time, although it will probably not quite reach the 1962 level. Prices may keep trying to edge upward, but should be held in check by competitive pressures."

ARTHUR MAYSE

When last we met in this corner, I offered certain verses based on the legend that animals receive the gift of speech each Christmas Eve at midnight. Since then, without exception, those who chose to comment on my hastily-contrived effort have asked this question or variations thereof:

"Did you write it yourself?"

This reaction puzzles me. If it hadn't been my own work, I'd have ascribed a source. Not to do so would be plagiarism, a form of theft on a par with stealing lights off your neighbor's outdoor Christmas scene.

Part of the answer, I think, is that poetry and its poor relation, verse, have been all but crowded from the lives we pursue in a jangled age where education has been superseded by training.

"When we do encounter the stuff, we're uncomfortable with it, and unless it achieves precarious respectability by a recognized label—Robert Frost, Dylan Thomas or the like—we'd as soon not entertain it in our living rooms.

On the local level, its connotations tend to be satiric. It is expected of the rebellious young that they will turn away from any such questionable nonsense about the time they can buy a legal drink.

In plain fact, I suspect most of us feel there's something wrong with anyone who reads verse, let alone takes an occasional whiff at writing it.

One reason for the prevailing attitude toward poetry—indifference often bordering on antipathy—is that students are exposed to it in a manner guaranteed to establish a lively distaste in all but the most persevering.

What should and could be one of the more amiable facets of a liberal education is turned into the dreariest of all drudgery.

It is my firm conviction that a poem should be taken in the round. The student, for examination purposes, should know who wrote it, but should not be required to echo back someone else's, generally faulty, analysis of what the poet had in mind when he said thus-and-so.

To peck a poem to fragments in this the accepted school method is to ruin it. The thing makes its effect as a painting does—at first inspection or not at all. It is the total, personal impression that counts.

Most children like poetry until school spoils it for them. Some actually do retain a well-masked liking, in spite of English Lit. exams which they are required to prepare for by stuffing themselves like sausages with the most inconsequential of trivia.

Realizing this, the wise teacher will introduce a new poem or play by reading it through, without comment.

That way, something of value may remain even after poem or play has been laid out for the inevitable dissection.

Curiously, we're most willing to accept poetry when it isn't offered to us as such. Take away the identifying placard, and we approach it informally, in a frame of mind to enjoy it. Stubbish stuff, it can sneak up on us as the lyric of a popular song. "My Fair Lady" gave us some good verse and a poem or two. So, in earlier years, did "South Pacific."

If you are privileged to attend a Cathedral performance of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" this week or next, you'll be absorbing poetry as fine as any written in recent years.

To anyone interested, I suggest for a trial encounter with poetry, "John Brown's Body," by Stephen Vincent Benet. Parts of it should be put perhaps luckily, aren't—in the school texts.

But don't try to analyze it. Just accept it as an experience in heightened living.

The point I'd like to leave with you is that there's nothing queer or sissy in an honest liking for poetry. I've worked with loggers who could string a swinging rhyme—and how I wish now that I'd had the sense to write down some of their casual songs!

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Mrs. Marie Young, 72, of 2836 Rockwell, is reported in good condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital where she was admitted Christmas Eve after being knocked down by a car at Rockwell and George. She suffered head injuries.

Driver of the car was Rodney Nesbitt, 1486 Mitchell. This was the only serious accident reported in the Greater Victoria area over the holiday, and police reported no more than the usual number of minor traffic accidents.

Only two men, one in the city and one in Saanich, were charged with impaired driving in spite of police roadblocks.

NPD leader Tommy Douglas will propose the toast to the Immortal Memory at the annual Burns dinner of the Burns Club of Victoria in Holyrood House Jan. 25.

Tickets can be obtained from the Scottish Weaver Shop, 2334 Estevan Avenue, Oak Bay, and later at Eaton's box office.

Unitarian Fellowship of Victoria plans something different for the holiday season—an "Old Year's Party" to wind up 1962 with song and sociability. It starts at 8 p.m. Sunday in the War Amputations Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue.

Boys' Parliament Convenes Tonight

The 32nd annual Older Boys' Parliament will open tonight at 8 in the legislative chambers of the Parliament Buildings.

Sittings will be held Friday at 3 and 8:30 p.m. and Saturday at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Closing ceremonies will be held Monday at 2 p.m.

The idea of an older boys' parliament was conceived by the late Taylor Statten, national boys work secretary of the YMCA in Toronto in 1924. The Older Boys' Parliament has met each year in B.C. from Dec. 27-31 since 1930.

FINANCED BY BONDS It is sponsored by a senate which is made up of two representatives from any Christian group represented in the parliament.

The parliament and its activities are financed through the sale of "bonds" which are termed "an investment in youth."

In 1962, the parliament had a budget of more than $2,000, or a Challenge?

Two pump trucks, a service vehicle and an aerial ladder wagon from the city fire department, with assorted police vehicles in attendance, rushed to the legislative buildings this morning in response to a fire alarm.

The alarm, which was raised about 10:30 a.m., proved to be false.

Stork Delivered Six 'Parcels' Christmas Day

Six little bundles of joy weren't found under the Christmas tree Tuesday morning.

They were Christmas presents all right, but they were delivered by the stork—not good old St. Nick.

Of the six Greater Victoria babies born Christmas Day, five were delivered in St. Joseph's Hospital: Baby girls were born to Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Felix, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bryke, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marsh, and Mr. and Mrs. James Archibald. A baby boy was born to Dr. and Mrs. John Wilson.

Royal Jubilee Hospital had only one birth to report: a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sanderson Allen.

The main purpose of the organization, as stated in a member's oath is allegiance to the King of Kings. The member swears he will do all in his power to promote spiritual, mental, physical, and social development of boy life in B.C.

WORK THROUGH YEAR The work of the boys is not finished when parliament closes on Monday. Throughout the year they participate in youth programs, assisting handicapped and underprivileged children.

Parliament members do the ground work in setting up leadership conferences throughout the province as well as conducting inter-departmental church services.

The parliament will be broken down in to two sections: morning devotional periods at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the sittings. The theme of the devotional periods is "Christianity—A Crutch or a Challenge?"

SACRIFICE OF TREES CRITICIZED

Thousands of unwanted Christmas trees lie on city lots today, a forlorn holiday hangover.

Soon they will be hauled away in trucks, dumped in the countryside and burned.

They are the trees nobody would buy, the trees you could not even give away on Christmas Eve.

"It's a terrible waste," said a spokesman for the B.C. forest service.

B.C.'s million dollar Christmas tree business has finally overdone it.

There is so much competition nobody's benefiting very much—least of all the trees.

PRIVATE LAND All trees on the coast come from private land.

The government has no control over the cut whatever, said the forestry official.

It is against the law to cut a tree on crown land.

But in the interior, where crown land trees are allowed, the industry is carefully regulated.

Last year 2,174,000 trees were cut in B.C. and sold for $1,300,000. This year the total is estimated at 2,500,000 trees. Langford alone supplied 6,500.

Prices ranged from $7 to a giveaway at a Gorge Road store Monday night.

The problem is: too many people trying to make a buck and too little discrimination on the part of tree buyers, according to the forest service.

"If people were a bit more fussy then only the more attractive looking trees would be cut, and there wouldn't be so much waste," said the spokesman.

Tug Cleared Ice For Annual Swim

Swimmers could have used hot water bottle water wings in their 44th annual Christmas Day Inner Harbor swim.

A tug was called out to clear a 50-yard channel through a skim of ice for the six-man field of shivering aquasports, topped by youthful Monty Holding, with teen-ager Chris Tyrrell second.

Next day, Tyrrell put on a sprint to win the inaugural Boxing Day swim of the Penguin Club, held at Kinsmen Gorge Park, where 14 swimmers plunged into the icy salt water.

This was organized by W. R. Wilkie, 798-Cave, whose wife and daughter Rachel took the plunge with him.

All-Sooke Day Princess Theresa Eddy, 17, of Milnes Landing, was winner of the endurance-prize, staying in the pool nearly five minutes.

Esquimalt Coun. Bert Nelson was starter of the pool-wide sprint, and Reeve A. C. Wurtele presented winners with prizes.

RADIOS STOLEN

Thief Waited In Store For Closing

A thief is believed to have hidden in a downtown store in order to rob it after closing time over the holiday.

Police were unable to find evidence of entry to Continental Home Supply Ltd., 831 Johnson, having been forced.

However, a hole had been punched through an internal gyproc partition between store and office.

Four transistor radios and $15.45 in cash were reported missing.

City detectives also are investigating theft of three bottles of whisky from Westcraft Manufacturing Ltd., 2811 Douglas, over Christmas.

WINDOW SMASHED

A piece of iron had been hurled through a rear window of the premises in order to admit thieves.

An upstairs rear door to Harknett Fuel Ltd., 2333 Government, and an inner door were forced by thieves who made off with about three dollars in cash from an office.

Other articles may have been taken, police said.

On Christmas Day a neighbor reported the back door to 1638 Earle had been taken off its hinges while the owner, Finn Walters, was away on holiday.

It is not yet known whether anything is missing.

Schools to Reopen Jan. 3, Radio Report Incorrect

School children in the Greater Victoria area will return to school Jan. 3.

Officials of the three school boards administering the area—school districts 61 (Victoria), 62 (Sooke), and 63 (Saanich)—expressed concern today about erroneous radio reports that school started Jan. 2.

"In opening the schools Jan. 3, we are following the directive of the department of education," said a spokesman.

University students will have a little longer to prepare for the start of classes. Lectures at both Victoria College and the University of British Columbia begin Jan. 7, the first Monday in the New Year.

Retailers Jubilant

Monday's Shopping Set All-Time Mark

Managers of two city department stores agreed today that Monday set a new pre-Christmas shopping record for their stores, if not the entire mercantile community.

"It was the best," Hudson's Bay Co. manager Howard McKay said.

Lloyd Davies, of Spencer's Stores, echoed, "It was definitely our record."

"It was one of the real big ones. We are very happy with that."

Managers said volume of trade and of customers were both remarkably high.

Holidays* Marred By Fires

Faulty wiring is blamed for a fire which broke out in an upstairs suite of a Harbinger Road house on Boxing Day afternoon, causing about $1,500 damage.

The fire started in a clothes closet at 517 Harbinger about 2 p.m.

Owners of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rozell, called the city fire department after smoke was noticed coming from the closet.

No one was injured in the blaze.

Extensive damage was done to the attic and roof of the building, and a large amount of clothing was destroyed.

It was the second of two fires which marred the Christmas holidays.

TWO INJURED

Two people received minor injuries in a fire which broke out at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Vance, 2547 Garden, late Christmas Eve.

City fire lieutenant Harry Marrion, 433 Arnold, cut his hand smashing a window to release heat while fighting the blaze.

Earlier Frederick Randolph, 2451 Roseberry, cut his finger while smashing a window to see if anyone was in the burning building. However, Mrs. Vance was at work when the blaze started about 10:45 p.m.

The living room was gutted, and other rooms received smoke damage.

Diphtheria Death Fears Ruled Out

Preliminary pathological tests following death of a suspected diphtheria case, here, Boxing Day have shown the adult woman did not have the now rare disease, metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread said today.

He was commenting on growing rumors that a diphtheria death had occurred.

"The woman was seriously ill but it was terminal infection of the chest," said Dr. Whitbread.

He said when first symptoms resembling diphtheria occurred "we naturally took all the immediate precautions and got hold of the family contacts—but in actual fact that's all it was—precautionary."

"Laboratory tests have been made and they have all proved negative so far. We expect results of the final test tomorrow."

DEATH IN JAMAICA of John Michael Hewitt, recalled "color bar" incident in 1954 when the Shawnigan Lake School teacher married Dorothy Holtz, shown here with him.

Jamaica Death Ends 'Shawnigan Story'

John Michael Hewitt, former science master at Shawnigan Lake School and central figure in a much-publicized "color bar" incident, died in Jamaica recently. He was 39.

In 1954, shortly before the fall term opened, he married Dorothy Holtz, a Jamaican fashion model and swimming champion, daughter of Noel Holtz, accountant general of Jamaica.

At the time of his death, Mr. Hewitt was serving as deputy superintendent of the St. Thomas division, Jamaica Constabulary.

Born in Sussex, England, he was a lieutenant with special force troops in Burma during the Second World War, and was mentioned in dispatches.

Before going to Shawnigan, he was physical training instructor at Wolmer's Boys' School. He joined the Jamaica Constabulary in October, 1956. He is survived by the widow and two children.

... "amazing benefactions"

By JOHN MIKA

An amazing series of benefactions to Victoria and various community organizations was revealed fully for the first time in the will of Thomas Shanks McPherson when it was filed for probate today. Some bequests had been made public previously.

Value of the estate was estimated at a net of approximately $4,000,000 but Mr. McPherson's will ensures that its ultimate value with accrued interest will substantially exceed this figure.

And virtually all of it will benefit every citizen of Victoria and some segments of the community several times over.

Aside from modest bequests to a relative and an ailing friend, Mr. McPherson left his fortune to the city of Victoria, Victoria College, the Salvation Army, Y.M.-Y.W.C.A., Christ Church Cathedral, and made provision for gifts to 11 charities for the next five years.

Mr. McPherson, who died Dec. 3 at the age of 89, was the epitome of the extremely shy self-made businessman who helped charities without fanfare all his life and even on his death.

He loved Victoria with a dedicated passion which the city probably never will forget.

Under the terms of his will, the city stands to benefit by almost $3,000,000 in five years' time—by far the largest legacy it has ever received from a citizen.

The will was filed for probate by Douglas Abbott, manager of The Canada Trust Company which is executor and trustee.

It calls for almost immediate disbursement of $700,000 in bequests to:

- Christ Church Cathedral, $50,000 in the hope it will be used for completing the chancel;
- University Building Fund for Victoria College, $250,000;
- Salvation Army, $200,000 to be used in the province;
- Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association, $200,000 for the proposed joint building in Victoria.

Two Small Lifetime Legacies

The $3,300,000 remainder of the estate—mostly in stocks at the moment but also including part ownership of the seven-story Central Building office block, the old Pantages Theatre and some adjoining property—will be tied up for five years.

During that period, the income from the estate will be distributed in annual gifts to 11 charities and a Masonic lodge.

COLD GRIPS EUROPE

18 Die in U.K. Train Crash

LONDON (CP) — Two British trains smashed together in a blizzard Wednesday night, killing at least 18 persons, and many other deaths were reported from Europe as bitter Arctic winds pushed winter southward across the continent.

A blizzard that dropped up to a foot of snow in England was blowing when the Glasgow-to-London Scot Express smashed into the rear of a local train stopped at Copenhall Junction four miles outside the Midlands industrial city of Crewe.

The dead—many of them still unidentified—all were in one car of the Liverpool-to-Birmingham local. Six were children. Thirty-three persons were injured, many critically.

The local train's two end cars, one of them a baggage car, were smashed into a mass of twisted metal.

Firemen worked under automobile headlights to cut through the twisted steel with acetylene torches.

It was Britain's worst train wreck since 1957, when 90 persons were killed in the collision of two rush-hour commuter trains between London and Lewisham.

Rescue squads worked by headlamps, laying them dead out at a nearby farm and carrying the injured to a field to await ambulances.

"Some of the injured are so seriously hurt that it is doubtful whether they will survive," said a fire department spokesman.

POWER LINES FALL

A dozen doctors and 60 firemen worked frantically to rescue the trapped and injured but were severely hampered by fallen power lines brought down by the crash.

Europe's piercing weather extended from the far north to the Mediterranean and eastward to Siberia.

Two people were frozen to death in northern Portugal. It snowed in northern and central Spain. Italy was wrapped in snow from the Alps to Sicily. In Calabria, in the toe of Italy, four persons died when their car skidded and hit a tree in a snowstorm.

In the Italian Alpine town of Domossola an avalanche swept two smugglers to their deaths.

In the Italian Alps, temperatures plunged to 31 degrees below zero at Trapelle, highest inhabited area in Europe. Italian newspapers reported the coldest Christmas of the century.

SNOW HITS PARIS

Snowplows churned in Copenhagen, Denmark, where temperatures hovered around freezing.

RELATIVES ARRIVE

'Outside Cuba Anything Looks Like Heaven'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The freighter African Pilot brought 921 relatives of the Bay of Pigs captives to Florida today and to an emotional reunion.

About 600 of the prisoners, released last Sunday and Monday, were waiting at an auditorium when their relatives arrived by bus from Port Everglades, where their ship docked.

The first woman to enter the hall, Mrs. Nerida Rodriguez Estrada, 23, became incoherent when she was unable to locate her husband at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Delgado tearfully embraced their son, Roman, 28, when they saw him for the first time in eight months.

'Suddenly Everyone's An Invader's Cousin'

HAVANA (AP) — Crowds of Cubans today thronged the homes of the Cuban invaders' families committee anxious for clearance that would allow them to travel to the United States.

They had heard reports that Premier Fidel Castro would authorize the departure of another 1,000 relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders.

Wednesday 921 men, women and children left aboard the American freighter African Pilot.

Clutching their blue passports, the prospective emigrants have chosen to remain here.

Statement Irks Britain, U.S.

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker divulged the amount of a Western military aid program for India before the United States and Britain could officially inform India and Pakistan, diplomatic sources reported today.

Mr. Diefenbaker disclosed at Nassau after a luncheon meeting with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the U.S., Britain and Canada and some other Commonwealth countries plan to supply India with $120,000,000 worth of military equipment to bolster its against Communist Chinese aggression.

Pakistan had already expressed alarm over Western military assistance to India, fearing India might use it in its long-standing dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Pakistan has contended that large-scale military aid to India might make matters worse instead of better in the Asian sub-continent.

Diplomatic sources said Mr. Diefenbaker revealed the amount of the program before Britain and the U.S. could inform India or reassure Pakistan that the Western weapons would be used only by India in its conflict with China.

REPORTED UPSET

Consequently, the U.S. and Britain were reported upset by Mr. Diefenbaker's disclosure.

Mr. Diefenbaker a few weeks ago offered Canada's diplomatic aid to India and Pakistan to try to settle the Kashmir dispute. The United Kingdom's high commissioner's office and the U.S. embassy here had no comment on the matter. They said they are not directly concerned.

Jake Gave Jack To John

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

John (Jake the Barber) Factor and his wife contributed $2,000 to the Kennedy presidential campaign and the Democratic National Committee in 1960 and 1961, congressional records showed today.

Factor was given a Christmas pardon last weekend by President Kennedy from a 1943 fraud conviction. The action will quash current deportation proceedings against him.

Factor contributed $10,000 to two Democratic campaign groups in 1960 and $2,000 to the National Committee last year, according to reports filed with the U.S. House of Representatives. His wife, Rella, contributed $10,000 in 1960.

(In Palm Beach, Fla., where President Kennedy is holidaying, press secretary Pierre Salinger said of the Factor campaign contribution: "I don't know anything about it.")

Ski Tow Breakdown Traps 56

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fifty-six young persons were trapped—some for as much as three hours—in freezing temperatures Wednesday night when a chairlift on Hollyburn Mountain in neighboring West Vancouver broke down.

Police said today they are holding four youths who are believed to have caused the accident by swinging chairs as they went around the turning mechanism at the bottom of the lift.

The young persons who were attending a dance at a ski lodge on the mountain, suffered no severe injuries.

One hundred and five others who were stranded at the top of the lift were guided down the snow-covered mountain by police.

Some of the trapped swayed in chairs 200 feet above the ground. Firemen used 40-foot aluminum ladders and ropes to rescue them.

Ropes were looped over the chairlift at the high edge of a 200-foot gully. They were then inched down to the stranded riders and a ladder sent over to them. They crawled along the ladders to the edge of the gully.

Police said the cable was slipped out of the pulley by youths swinging the chairs.

The sagging cable, kept in motion by an engine at the top of the lift, dragged a chair into the cross beams of a tower, pulling down the heavy structure.

Ray Carlaw, 22, who was thrown 39 feet to the ground from the entangled chair suffered cuts and bruises.

The passengers had been attending a dance of the Jewish Community Centre of Vancouver. The chairlift was turned on to take them down the mountain to chartered buses.

Forest ranger Ted Russell said chairlift operator Mike Gazda was riding the first chair down.

"Gazda just arrived at the bottom when he saw four kids swinging the chairs as they went around the pulley."

ARCTIC AIR FIGHTING TO GIVE CITY SNOW

A mass of Arctic air is putting up a valiant struggle to bring a touch of winter to the Victoria area.

The official forecast calls for a resumption of colder temperatures Friday and Saturday, mostly cloudy with showers—some of them mixed with snow.

Noon temperature at Gonzales was 40, low expected tonight is in the 35 to 38 range.
